Want to 'Adopt' a Family for Christmas? Here's How It Can Be Done

Would you like to share your good fortune with someone less fortunate this Christmas, so that both of you may have a happier holiday?

Of course you would, and that's why you are bound to be interested in plans made this week for a big community Give-a-Christmas program sponsored by the Mansfield Service League, the Junior Association of Commerce and The News-Journal.

There are so many families in Mansfield that will have big, full, happy holidays, and on the other hand a lot of families that will have nothing. If the fortunate ones will share with the less [illegible] one will know the real meaning of Christmas.

It is with this thought in mind that the Give-a-Christmas program is planned. There are probably 150 to 200 families here that need just such kindness and the Service League, with the assistance of the Community Fund, will act as a clearing house on adopting families; the Junior Association will assist in collecting food for needy families and The News-Journal will assist both of the other organizations.

The Service League, under the direction of its president, Mrs. R. R. Black, has selected more than 100 families that it deems most worthy and most in need of assistance. It has investigated each family and knows the needs of each member.

From now on until close to the holiday The News-Journal will publish a daily synopsis of the lives of these families and each one will be numbered so that they may be called for by number.

If you want to share a Christmas all you have to do is look for the list of families each day in this paper, find one of about the size that you want and call Mrs. Black by telephone, at Canal 1798.

Christmas baskets should contain practical foods as well as a few Christmas luxuries. It is suggested that wherever it is possible tenderized ham be put in baskets rather than fowl or fresh meats—because many families cook on kerosene stoves and appreciate anything that conserves their fuel.

Many families need clothing, which can be either new or used, but it should be clean and in condition that no one need be ashamed to wear it.

If, at the end of the Give-A-Christmas program, there are still families left on the list, the three sponsoring organizations will attempt to find food for their Christmas dinners.

Plane Crash Death Toll Mounts to Eight

EIGHT OTHERS INJURED WHEN LINER WRECKS

UAL Ship Noses Into Vacant Lot Trying To Land at Chicago Airport.

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO — The death early today of two men brought to eight the number of persons killed in the crash of a United Air Lines plane near the Chicago municipal airport.

Eight others were injured.

From the lips of survivors and an examination of the wreckage, investigators sought an explanation for the accident which occurred when the 21-passenger Mainliner, inbound from the east, plunged nose first into a vacant lot a scant 200 yards from the airport about 6 p. m. last night.

Witnesses said that the big craft apparently lost flying speed when coming in for a landing and dropped from a height of about 150 feet.

The plane grazed a three-story apartment building at Keating avenue and 64th street, broke an electric power line, smashed the gable of a bungalow, and demolished a frame garage before coming to a stop.

Flames shot out from the smashed nose of the plane as it struck the ground. City firemen extinguished the blaze which was confined to the pilots' compartment. The pilot, co-pilot and four passengers were dragged from the wreckage dead or dying. Of the survivors only one was reported in a critical condition.

J. H. Herlihy, vice president in charge of operations for the line, scouted the theory that ice formation on the wings might have caused the crash. He said that pilots are required to radio reports of icing and that none had been made by the plane crew.

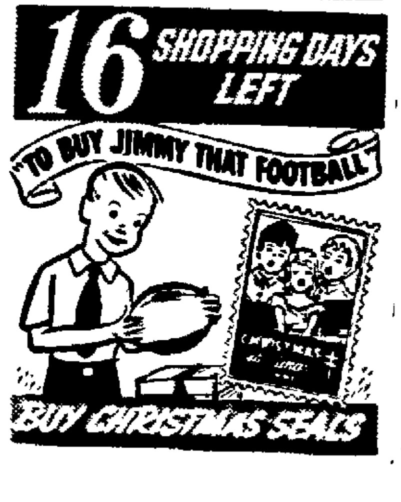
Water To Be Shut Off For 3 Hours Tomorrow Morning.

Residents and merchants in the vicinity of North Mulberry and West Third streets will be without water for about three hours tomorrow morning while workmen shut off the supply to install a new valve on North Waldon avenue.

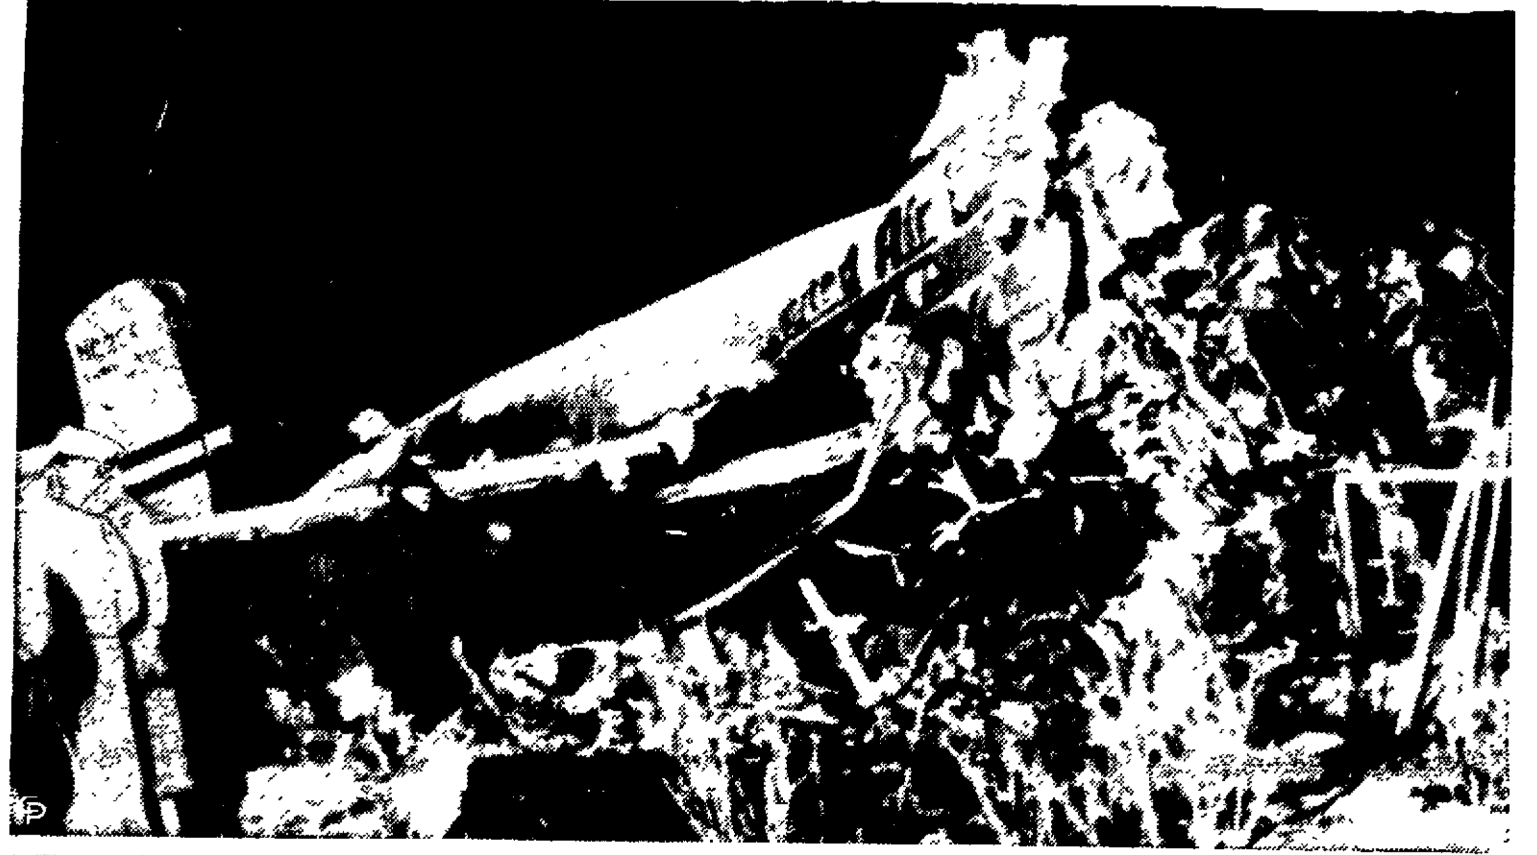
Service-Safety Director C. M. Craften said the service would be shut off on West Third street from Mulberry to Bowman and on North Mulberry from Park avenue to West Fourth street from 8 a. m. until 11 a. m.

Water department employes will install a new valve on Weldon at West Third street in connection with the construction of the new line being laid on the street by WPA.

Craften said West Third street was closed at Weldon avenue today but would be opened probably Saturday to through traffic.



Airliner Crash In Chicago In Which Eight Lost Their Lives



The wreckage of the 21-passenger airliner which crashed into a garage 200 feet from the Chicago Municipal Airport while attempting an emergency landing is vividly shown in the above photo. The two pilots were instantly killed and six passengers are dead. Authorities placed the accident blame on a raging snowstorm which greatly reduced flying visibility.

SNOW AND ICE PERIL TRAFFIC

Mansfield In Center of Area of Treacherous Driving; New Cold Wave on Way.

Light snow which packed quickly on streets and roads caused a number of traffic accidents in the Mansfield area last night and this morning, injuring two persons, neither seriously.

Mansfield was in the center of an area of treacherous driving conditions which extended from Lake Erie southward to Marion, Mt. Gilead and Mt. Vernon.

Temperatures moved up to normal again today, but another cold blast was forecast for this area tonight as a new cold wave, less severe than the one earlier this week, moves into Ohio.

Lowest reading this morning was 22 degrees. By noon the mercury had climbed to 32, causing the ice coating on the streets to melt.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stout of Utica were treated by a physician for back and neck injuries after the car in which they were riding with Mrs. Ruth Torrens, Utica, figured in a collision with another automobile at 5 p. m. yesterday at Park avenue west and Weldon avenue.

Police said a car operated by Myron Smith, 11 Williams avenue, skidded into the rear of the other machine.

Six cars were involved in an accident this morning on route 13 near the Possum Run golf course, but no one was reported injured. One of the machines slipped off the highway and the others skidded into it.

State highway patrolmen and police were kept busy during the night and early morning investigating reports of cars off the road and minor crashes which resulted from the icy streets and roads.

Roads south of the northern Ohio ice area were reported in good condition today. Temperatures in the southern half of the state ranged upward to 42 degrees and the snow melted quickly.

Only northern Minnesota reported below zero readings this morning, but that cold belt was expected to extend south into Ohio tonight, resulting in a sharp drop in the temperature in this section.

Plane Dropped Flare Just Before Disaster

Witness of Chicago Crash Helps Three People From Wreckage, One Dies In His Arms.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO—Edward Fisher, a tavern owner and one of the first to reach the wrecked United Airliner which crashed within a few hundred yards of the Chicago airport last night, said today that just before the plane plunged to earth, a red flare was dropped from the ship.

"I was looking out of the tavern window when I saw the plane," he said. "Suddenly, a red flare dropped, indicating the pilot was in trouble. The plane was very low.

"I ran out of the tavern, but just as I reached the door the plane struck some wires and burst into flames. There was a shattering crash when the ship hit the garage.

"I rushed over there and helped three people out of the wreckage. One of them, a heavy man, died in my arms. I also helped the stewardess out of the ship."

Mrs. Elizabeth Reeder, a housewife, was preparing dinner in her home when she heard the crash. Her clock stopped when her bungalow shook, she said.

"I looked out of the window," she recalled, "but I only looked once. The forward part of the plane seemed to be sheathed in

LEAVE TUESDAY

Last of Draftees In County's First Quota Set To Go.

Three more Richland county draftees, filling the county's first quota of nine men, will leave for Ft. Hayes, Columbus, at 9.15 a. m. Tuesday, it was announced today.

The men have been ready to leave for more than a week, but the order to send them was not received until this morning by draft board No. 3. The county previously sent six men to camp, all volunteers.

The three men, all of whom were drafted, are Joseph Mundey, jr., 26, of R. D. 4, Shelby; Chester L. Gray, 22, Shiloh, and Dale Everett McKinney, 29, Shelby.

Six Mansfield physicians will conduct the first group examination of men from 9 to 11 a. m. Friday at the Armory, draft officials said today. Eight men in the A-1 classification from each board will be examined.

Hundreds More on Hand for Second Night of 'Here Today'

With the second night's presentation of "Here Today, Gone Tomorrow" by the Community Players last night at John Simpson auditorium, almost 2,000 persons saw the play as compared to the average 600 who ordinarily witness a community play in Mansfield.

The Bromfield-Hawkins show played before an audience of more than 900 last night and to more than 1,000 the first night. It will be repeated tonight at the Lucas high school auditorium and a sell-out of the 800 seats is anticipated. Entire proceeds from the play at Lucas will go to the Lucas Community Institute and will be used to defray expenses of the Farmers Institute in January, in which Novelist Bromfield is interested.

Last night, the show went off smoothly even though the excitement and thrill of a "first night" was missing. At the end of the show Bromfield and George Hawkins, authors of the play, took curtain call and Bromfield made a brief talk in which he thanked members of the cast and Helen Bacon, director, for their work. He said that when the idea for the amateur production of their play developed he had thought it would be fun, but he had not expected all the work that had gone into it nor

MAYOR REPLIES TO COMMISSION

Declares 'Settling' Process, Weather Cause Delay on Bowman Span Paving.

Mayor William J. Locke today replied to county commissioners on the status of the Bowman street bridge paving, defending his administration against charges by commissioners that the city had not lived up to its agreement.

Locke quoted both County Engineer Howard C. Sword and City Engineer W. C. Statler as recommending that the filled-in approaches to the span be allowed to settle for six months before putting down permanent pavement.

Since the bridge was opened to two-way traffic about May 28, Locke pointed out, the six-month period expired only on Nov. 28.

"I am sure your board realizes that there has been no possible chance of starting work since then," the mayor wrote, referring to weather conditions.

He said the city would "do its best" to see that the approaches were kept in passable condition during the winter months, and informed commissioners that council's street committee and Engineer Statler had recommended paving the street from the B. & O.

BIG GAS WELL CATCHES FIRE

Explosion Starts Blaze At Michigan Plant.

BAY CITY, Mich.—(INS)—With a terrific roar Michigan's largest natural gas well exploded shortly after two a. m. today and a subsequent fire sent flames leaping 100 feet into the air.

No one was injured as the four men on duty at the time were eating in a shack some distance away. Two of the men had been in the derrick 20 minutes earlier.

The flames were still raging at 9:30 a. m. as nearly fire fighting equipment was inadequate to cope with the situation. The Gulf Oil Co., owner of the well, made plans to fly special fire fighting apparatus from Texas.

AUTO CLUB SET TO HELP CURB BUS MISHAPS

Richland Organization Offers To Equip Schoolboy Patrol For County Vehicles.

A plan to safeguard children when getting off or on Richland county school buses was suggested today by Frank Beverstock, Richland county Auto club secretary, in a letter sent to all township school boards in the county.

Beverstock proposed that all buses carry two guards equipped with "stop" signs, who would patrol the road while the buses were loading and unloading passengers. The club offers to provide equipment for all such guards.

The proposal was prompted, Beverstock said today, by the unusual number of accidents involving school buses in the Richland county area during the past three months. In the past few weeks, two school children have been seriously injured after leaving school buses.

"The Richland county Auto club now furnishes equipment for the school boy patrols in the city and we are more than willing to do the same thing for bus guards acting in rural districts," Beverstock said.

All boards interested in the plan were requested today to call at the Richland county Auto club offices, 56 North Mulberry street, for information pertaining to the proposal.

Struck down by a truck as she left a school bus in front of the Olivesburg school Monday, Frances Henry, R. D. 2, Mansfield, became the 15th victim in accidents involving school buses in the Richland county area this year. A week ago a boy was injured on South Diamond street road in a similar accident.

Sustaining a compound fracture of the right leg, lacerations, and suffering from severe shock, the Henry girl was still in General hospital today. In another accident last September south of Shenandoah, nine school children were injured, some of them seriously.

DIES IN CRASH

C. H. Egner, Ex-Mansfielder, Killed Near Wooster.

Charles H. Egner, 51, of Wooster, a native of Richland county and widely known in this vicinity, was killed last night when the automobile he was driving collided with a truck at Jackson, north of Wooster.

An employe of a Columbus packing company, Mr. Egner was a brother-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Kalbfleisch and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bissman, both of Mansfield.

Born in Shenandoah Sept. 5, 1889, he moved to Wooster several years ago. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Egner of Shenandoah, who survive.

Also surviving are his wife, Mrs. Marie Egner, and four brothers and a sister. The body was brought to the Jones Memorial today, pending funeral arrangements.

Seize Premet, Threaten Two Italian Bases

Entrapment of Fascist Forces Seen Likely if Tepelini Falls to Enemy; Retreat on North End of Line Reported.

BULLETIN

ATHENS—(INS)—Argirocastro, key to all southern Albania, and Porto Edda, vital base on the sea, are both now virtually in Greek hands, according to reliable information in Athens tonight. Italian troops are believed to have evacuated both towns.

(By Associated Press)

ATHENS—Greek forces launched dawn attacks today on Porto Edda and Argirocastro, Italy's last remaining big bases in the southwestern corner of Albania, according to a greek report from the front, and the two cities were reported about to fall.

The main road from Porto Edda, Albania, was said to be under Greek control, but this left open escape by a tortuous coastal route, less improved than the main road running through Agirocastro.

One report, however, said Porto Edda was completely cut off from communication with the rest of Albania. Porto Edda, formerly called Santi Quaranta (forty saints), was renamed for Premier Mussolini's daughter, wife of Foreign Minister Count Ciano.

A dispatch from the Argirocastro area said:

"Our troops have made further considerable advances and occupied additional important positions."

Another said that the Argirocastro radio station had been silent since last night shortly after it was officially stated in Athens that the Italians were withdrawing from Argirocastro toward Tepelini.

The Greek army announced today capture of Premet, thereby threatening entrapment of Italian forces at Argirocastro and northward in the valley of the Dryno river if the Greeks could push 20 miles on from Premet and take Tepelini.

CUFFING: German Raiders Give London Brief Bombing

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—A silent, disapproving house of commons rejected by a vote of 341 to 4 a motion by three members of the Independent Labor party today that Britain state her war aims and seek peace immediately, "if necessary in a spirit of compromise," because, they said "there is no certainty of a great military victory."

(By United Press)

LONDON—Despite heavy fog and icy conditions over the English channel, German bombers flew over England during the night, paused to give London a "cuffing" and then hurled bombs on their main target, a Midlands town.

Instead of coming over in waves, the raiders arrived one by one and each met a fierce barrage that spoiled the effectiveness of the attack, according to a joint communique of the air and home security ministries.

The first arrivals carried out the usual procedure of dropping incendiary bombs while others followed with high explosive bombs. Because the raiders were forced to fly alone, fire fighters were able to extinguish fires before the "business" bombers arrived.

Hits were scored, however, on a police station, a church and depot. The property damage was small and casualties were few.

In air circles it was said that the intensity of the attack last night had lessened because of the

RELEASED: 20 Bombers for Britain Formerly Approved

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Secretary Morgenthau said today that he, like Jesse Jones, the federal loan administrator, believed that the British government was a "good risk" for loans.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The United States formally released 20 "flying fortress" bombers to Great Britain today in the midst of several moves to speed more aid—possibly financial—to the British.

Treasury officials arranged a series of conferences between Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., and Sir Frederick Phillips, undersecretary of the British treasury, to discuss "lacks" in the British financial position. Phillips declined to comment when asked upon his arrival in New York last night whether he sought credits.

British shipping experts are seeking to double the number of vessels which they propose to have built in American shipyards. Earlier this week the plan called for construction of 60 freighters.

Chairman Walter F. George of the senate foreign relations committee proposed that defense production be stepped up to a wartime basis — around-the-clock if necessary—to provide substantial aid to Britain and to get our own armament program into high gear. He said he was not advocating participation in the war, but just a precautionary measure against possible future lags in production.

FREEZING OYSTERS

Quick-freezing is putting "r's" into the months in which oysters are banned, the Modern Home Institute reports. Oysters are now being frozen and held over for the "oysterless" months, and also are being delivered frozen, as fresh as the day they were taken from the beds, to remote inland points. Thrifty users of storage lockers and home deep-freezing units buy quantities for use as needed.

Black Walnut or Butternut Spice Cake.

1 cup black walnuts or butternuts, broken.
½ cup butter or fat.
2 cups brown sugar.
3 eggs, separated.
3 cups sifted flour.
¾ cup milk.
1 tablespoon baking powder.
1½ teaspoon salt.
½ teaspoon cinnamon.
½ teaspoon nutmeg.
½ teaspoon ground cloves.

Put broken nut meats in boiling water for five minutes and drain. Cream fat, add sugar a little at a time and cream thoroughly, add well-beaten egg yolks. Sift dry ingredients together and add them to first mixture, then add nuts. Fold in well-beaten egg whites last. Bake either in greased muffin tins or in layer-cake pans in 350 degree oven for about 20 minutes or until lightly browned.

Different Temperments Won't Click

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The morning's mail brings a letter from a young man, who signs himself "Peter" and who writes to tell me some of his troubles. Engaged to a girl of 21, he is 23 and very much in love. He wonders if love can thrive when tastes are opposite, which is true in their case.

The boy, who is sensitive, works in a noisy office where typewriters clatter and telephones ring all day long. He likes to have peace and quiet when he comes home evenings. The girl, who works in a department store, is ready for movies, a dance, or a party—"any place at all where the din rages," as he fiance writes.

He tells me he greatly desires this girl's companionship, but she wants to be going at top speed all the time. You'd think her job in a department store would supply her with all the stimulants that crowds, noise and confusion can give. But when she comes home after working all day, she's ready for more, and gets bored if the evening is spent at home.

Her mother tells him she has a hard time getting the girl up in the morning, and that her daughter fairly dances into her clothes, then hums and sings while waiting for breakfast. This liveliness, it seems, makes her very popular with both boys and girls in her set.

The young lady think she's in love with the boy to whom she's engaged, but she has a questionable way of showing it, when she asks for all sorts of expensive gifts which she knows her fiance cannot afford. Right now he's paying for her diamond ring, and very often has to go without lunch to meet the payments.

The girl seems to have no desire to talk about plans for the future To her friends she admits that some day, when she can afford the bridal outfit she has set her heart upon, she'll have the knot tied—and hopes they'll live happily ever after.

I think, in this case, the prospects of a happy marriage are distinctly risky. Peter is beginning to think the same way about it. There's nothing slow about him. He greatly likes dancing, and dances well enough to please his inamorata; but he also likes hiking in the country and all outdoor games. He likes books and quiet talks.

Must he forego these pleasures forever in marrying a girl who can find no "kick" in quiet companionship, or should he, before it's too late, pull himself out of this particular engagement?

I'm afraid he won't do that because, in spite of their temperamental differences, he is fascinated with this noisy, lively girl. From the facts as given I feel that these two young people will not succeed in understanding each other, and that if marriage does not change them, after a few years the tension will have become so acute that neither of them will be able to endure it longer.

CHURCH ACTIVITIES OCCUPY RESIDENTS

Rector, Mrs. Lewis Entertain With Tea; Missionary Society Has Quarterly Meeting; Bible Class Holds Annual Party.

CHAPTER XIV

"No," Allan corrected, "not just anywhere. This happens to be a very special occasion!

Glory's heart leaped. What did he mean?

Allan rose and drew a small velvet box from his pocket.

"Your birthday present," he said.

Her eyes grew wide as she saw a magnificent square-cut sapphire ring edged with diamonds.

"Oh, Allan!" she breathed rapturiously.

"Put it on," Allan urged.

Glory placed the ring on her finger where it flashed its blue fire against her white hand.

"A sapphire to match your eyes!" Allan whispered.

Glory gazed at the ring longingly.

"It's lovely," she stammered, "but I couldn't keep such an expensive present."

Allan laughed as he drew her into his arms.

"Don't you understand, sweet?" he said softly. "It's an engagement ring!"

Glory's heart stood still. She could not believe that Allan had really proposed. An engagement ring, he had said! She gazed at the squarecut sapphire gleaming on her finger as if afraid it might vanish.

"What's the matter, Glory? Don't you like it?" Allan asked.

"Like it? Oh, Allan, it's beautiful!" she pressed her glowing face against his shoulder. How could she have doubted him? He had been sincere from the beginning. He wanted to marry her! What greater proof could there be of his devotion?

As if reading her mind, Allan said, "You believe now that I love you?"

He read the answer in her shining blue eyes.

"Then kiss me!" he commanded.

They went to dinner at one of the best restaurants. Glory would have preferred a quieter place to celebrate their engagement but Allan said there would be some "big shots" there. It annoyed her to think that he was forced to think about his career at this particular moment, but after all, what did it matter where they were? They were to be married. Allan would be hers!

As they danced, she asked, "You won't object if I go on with my work, will you, Allan?"

He smiled. "No! I want you to! I want you to be glamorous and beautiful — always! Someday YOUR name will be in lights, too, Glory, and I'll be proud of you."

How perfectly Allan fit in with her plans! Her ambition and her love for him seemed to be one magic emotion.

Back at their table again, Glory saw Scottie Weston coming toward them.

Allan lowered his voice, "Look, Glory. We won't say anything about our engagement, yet."

Before she could reply, Scottie was greeting them.

To Allan's obvious annoyance, he sat down and Glory saw that his shrewd eyes instantly noticed the ring she was wearing.

When Allan excused himself to speak to some one at another table, Scottie barked, "Where did you get it?"

Glory hesitated. What could she tell him? Scottie knew that she couldn't afford to buy a ring like that on her salary. But after all it wasn't any of Scottie's business. It was ridiculous the way he acted about Allan.

"You don't have to tell me. I can guess! Are you engaged?" Scottie inquired dryly.

"Yes!" Glory burst out. "We are, but Allan asked me not to mention it tonight, so please don't tell any one."

"Don't worry!" Scottie assured her. "But why doesn't Allan want any one to know it?"

"Oh, Scottie, please! Don't act this way about it!"

"Well, why should he want it to be a secret if it's on the up and up?"

Why was it that Allan came between her and every one else? She always quarreled with Scottie and Helen about him, even Mark. Why did they all refuse to believe that Allan Rhodes was sincere?

"You think it's none of my business," Scottie continued, "but it is, because you happen to be under contract, Glory, and you've got to make the grade."

"I don't see what that has to do with Allan," she flared.

"You don't want to see," Scottie said, sadly.

When he was gone and Allen had returned to the table, he asked, "You didn't tell him?"

"He guessed it, Allan, and I couldn't lie to him. But he promised not to tell."

"I thought it might be better to wait until we could make definite plans," Allan said, frowning.

Glory was relieved.

"We both have many other things to think about just now," she admitted. "But after all we are engaged."

* * *

His smile warmed her heart! Then suddenly it occurred to her that Allan had not told her where he went on his mysterious vacation. She had been so hurt by that gossip column, which insinuated that Allan had deserted her for Mona Greer. They were engaged now so that Glory felt she had a right to know where he had been. If Allan understood, he would want to protect her from malicious gossip.

"You haven't told me yet where you were last week," she reminded him, trying to make her question casual.

Allan's smile faded but he did not hesitate. "I was in Mexico."

"Mexico?"

"Yes. And I did see Mona Greer, if that's what you're trying to find out."

"Oh Allan!" she cried.

"Why can't you trust me, Glory?" Allan's voice was reproachful. "I was in Mexico and I saw Mona. As a matter of fact, I went especially to see her because I wanted to get things settled between us. She was very helpful, very good to me, when I was getting started here."

Relief made Glory weak. "Every one tried to make something out of it," she said.

"Naturally they wouldn't know my reasons," Allan explained, "But I didn't think YOU'D doubt me, Glory!"

"When you didn't telephone me I didn't know what to think."

"Things were too complicated . . . but after all, sweet, you shouldn't be jealous of a woman who means nothing to me."

How logical it all seemed now, Glory thought, ashamed of her disloyalty. Why did she let herself be influenced by idle gossip? If she had only trusted Allan she could have saved herself much unnecessary heartache.

"I'll never doubt you again," she promised. Dear Allan! He had gone all the way to Mexico just to let Mona Greer understand the situation! How wonderful to realize that she never need worry about it again.

The orchestra was playing their favorite piece and they rose to dance. The music, the lights and the gay chatter delighted Glory's heart. There were all kinds of people here. Curious visitors from out of town hoping for a glimpse of a celebrity. Young couples who had probably been saving their money for weeks to come, and many who, like themselves, appeared at the famous night spot frequently. Actors and directors were scattered among the tables. Allan nodded a greeting to each. No matter where he was or what he was doing, Allan always remembered to speak to the "right people." It was a ritual with him but he was never high-hat or snobbish to those who weren't. He signed autograph books as if it were the greatest pleasure he had.

The days that followed passed like a dream. Glory worked during the day and spent the evenings with Allan making the rounds of their favorite places. The square-cut sapphire ring on her third finger caused many comments but Scottie kept his promise not to release the news of their engagement.

Two months went by but Allan had not mentioned definite plans for their marriage. Glory wished that they could settle it but Allan seemed to be too busy to think about getting married. Meanwhile Glory had finished her second picture and was to have a short vacation.

"Look, sweet," Allan said one rainy night as they sat before her mirrored fireplace, "I have to make a personal appearance in San Francisco next week. Why don't you go up with me?"

"We'll have to take Helen," Glory said, "and I don't know if she can get away."

"Must we have Helen?" Allan frowned. "After all, we're engaged."

"Even so," Glory insisted, "I can't go without a chaperon."

Allan flashed her a mocking smile. "All right, little puritan!"

Helen was not enthusiastic when informed of the idea. "I can get away," she told Glory, "but I'm not anxious to go anywhere with Allan Rhodes!"

"Oh please, Helen. I've never been to San Francisco and you know I won't go without you."

Helen laughed. "Since you put it that way I guess I'll have to go."

The next day found Glory at the studio having a fitting for some new clothes.

"I wish I could take a vacation," Van said, taking another tuck in a red chiffon.

Glory gazed at her reflection in the long mirror. Allan would love this dress. Red was his favorite color.

"I'm a wreck," Van continued. "Mona Greer was just in here making a scene as usual."

"Mona Greer! Is she back from Mexico?"

"And how!" Van said wearily. "That woman tears through this place like a cyclone. She's furious about you and Allen, Glory."

"That's too bad," Glory said calmly.

"Too bad for you!" Van corrected. "She's told every one all over town that she's going to get Allan back and she'll probably do it too. You don't know her, Glory, there's nothing she won't do. . . ."

"I'm not afraid of Mona Greer," Glory insisted—but with his words she had felt an ominous chill sweep across her heart.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Some weeks back, just before taking shelter in my bomb-proof doghouse, I made a noble resolution: Never again would I mention million-dollar jobs in pictures.

Tell everybody you know that I have a convert to this resolve, and his name is Mark Sandrich.

It was Mark who got me talking about million-dollar jobs in the first place. It was Mark, trying to pick out songs for "Love Thy Neighbor," who talked about million-dollar jobs himself. It was Mark who said there was a job open in Hollywood, for the right man. The man, Mark said, would have to be able to pick, infallibly, hit songs before they were sung on the screen.

It was a good idea, as far as it went, and it seems to have made cheerful reading. What I forgot to mention was that neither Mark nor I (for reasons I fear more obvious in my case than in Mark's) was looking for that man.

Quite a few people got that idea, and wrote in about it. So I made the aforementioned resolution and retreated to my b. p. doghouse. Today I found Mark, his eyes weary from reading, knocking at the door.

"I didn't know," he said when, after opening the door cautiously, I admitted him, "that there were so many expert song-judgers in the world."

"Yeah, I know," I cut him off with a sorry bark. "That's all I meant, too. You been getting letters?"

"And telegrams," he yowled sadly. "From all kinds of people. From people who just listen to the radio, from business executives, from musicians, from people in short, who all believe they have that psychic something that will select a hit tune instantly."

I passed him the dog biscuits, and as we gnawed at them over our wormwood tea, he told me about some of the letters that made him feel bad.

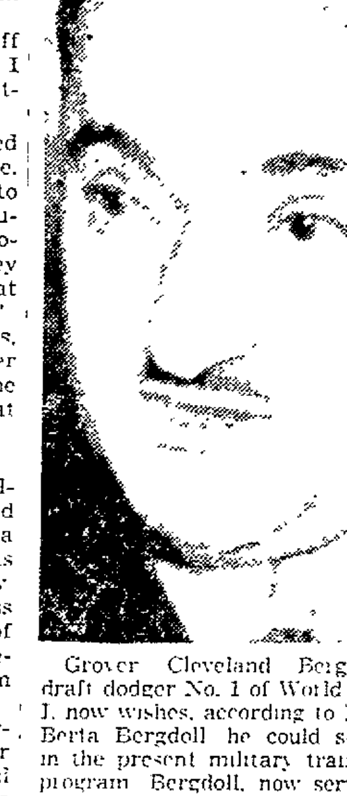
There was one from a schoolgirl who didn't know how she did it but could always listen to a song just once and gauge its popularity expectations instantly.

There was one from a business man who had made a hobby of music and also couldn't miss—because only good tunes kept him awake.

There was one from an advertising writer who didn't bother about the music but just listened to the lyrics. There were letters from musicians who could "tell" merely by playing the tune on their favorite instrument. There were some from applicants who "could pick hits" by the stars. There were letters from people who had studied "public trends" and would be happy to apply the studies—for that sizzling million.

"All," said Mark, "very interesting, and I don't doubt that every one who wrote or wired is earnest and possibly competent—but aside from wishing there were some such person here, I haven't anything to do with it. We listened to eight Johnny Burke-Jimmy Van Heusen tunes in order to pick out the three we used, and I hope we picked right—but we'll never know until the picture comes out."

23 Years Late



Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, draft dodger No. 1 of World war I, now wishes, according to Mrs. Berta Bergdoll he could serve in the present military training program. Bergdoll, now serving a seven-year sentence for draft evasion in Fort Leavenworth, Kan., federal prison, arrived at this decision to serve his country in uniform just 23 years too late.

THEATERS

Juvenile Detectives.

Youngsters turn detectives in "Gallant Sons," showing at the Ohio through Friday. Jackie Cooper, Bonita Granville and Gene Reynolds, school pals, head a group of clever youngsters who trace down a murderer to save the father of the young boy from prison and finally trick the real criminal into admission. Gail Patrick and Ian Hunter provide the adult romance.

"World in Flames."

The story behind the blitzkrieg, the spectacle of nations of the world careening madly along the road to war, is showing at the Madison in "World in Flames." Produced entirely from newsreels made in the period from 1929 to 1940, it makes clear the events and processes that are now reaching their climax in the World war that now envelopes Europe, Asia and Africa. Co-feature is "Youth Will Be Served" starring Jane Withers.

Civil War Days.

Adventure and thrills typical of the covered wagon days from which the film takes its name are seen in "Covered Wagon Days" at the Park. The scene is laid in the colorful era of the United State history following the Civil war. Raymond Hatton, Duncan Renaldo and Robert Livingston have the leading roles. Co-feature is "Up in the Air," a mystery musical with Frankie Darro, Mantan Moreland and Marjorie Reynolds in the cast.

Curwood Novel Filmed.

"River's End," taken from the story by James Oliver Curwood, is playing at the Ritz. The story begins in River's End where John Keith is accused of murdering a business associate. The place was known to the "mounties" as the place where murderers sought refuge from the law. Elizabeth Earl, Dennis Morgan, George Tobias and many others are in the cast.

Montgomery in Lead.

"The Earl of Chicago" brings a new theme to pictures in its presentation at the Majestic. The film opens in Chicago revealing the "inside" on modern gang methods. It then moves to England where its backgrounds are ritual, ceremony and tradition of centuries in the House of Lords. Robert Montgomery, Edward Arnold and Reginald Owen have the leading roles. Co-feature is "Riders of Black Mountain," with Tim McCoy in the lead.

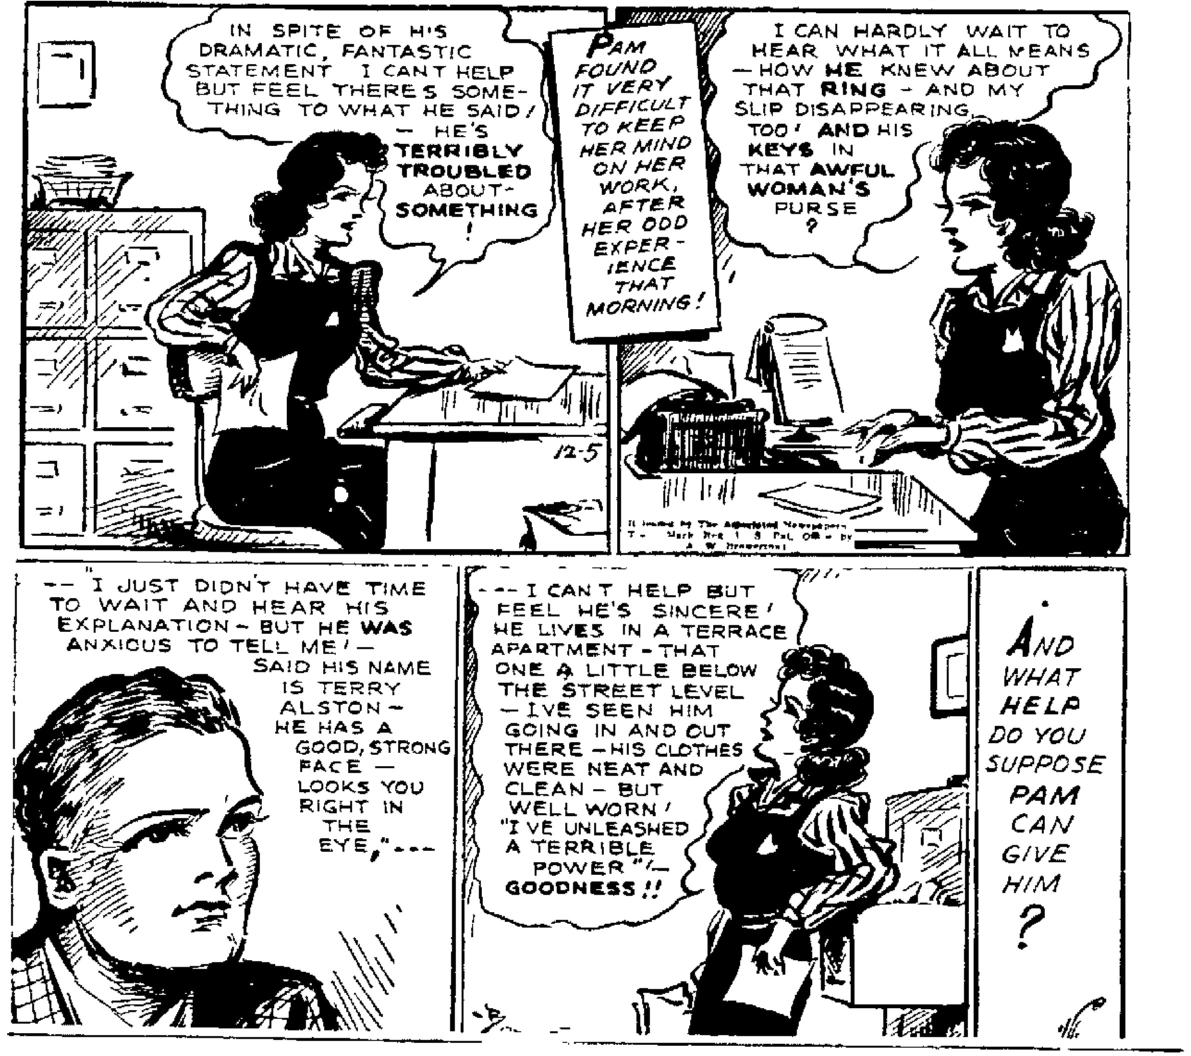
PAM— Riddles!

By A. W. Brewerton



IN SPITE OF HIS DRAMATIC, FANTASTIC STATEMENT I CAN'T HELP BUT FEEL THERE'S SOMETHING TO WHAT HE SAID! — HE'S TERRIBLY TROUBLED ABOUT SOMETHING!
PAM FOUND IT VERY DIFFICULT TO KEEP HER MIND ON HER WORK, AFTER HER ODD EXPERIENCE THAT MORNING!
I CAN HARDLY WAIT TO HEAR WHAT IT ALL MEANS — HOW HE KNEW ABOUT THAT RING — AND MY SLIP DISAPPEARING, TOO! AND HIS KEYS IN THAT AWFUL WOMAN'S PURSE?

AND WHAT HELP DO YOU SUPPOSE PAM CAN GIVE HIM?

LEADERS TACK ON RECOVERIES IN STOCK MART

Fractional Gains Distributed At Opening; Steels In Upside Group.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Leading stocks tacked on modest recoveries in today's market but many issues displayed slipping tendencies.

Fractional gains, fairly well distributed at the start, failed to hold in a number of cases and, near the second hour, prices were somewhat irregular. Dealings slowed after the opening.

On the upside occasionally were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, United Aircraft, International Harvester, Dow Chemical, Kennecott, American Smelting, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Great Northern and Texas Corp.

Market encouragement was found in the forecast of the commerce department that this year's volume of Christmas spending, despite prevailing lower prices, would shatter all previous records.

The shopping outlook was strengthened, it was said, by the estimate that factory payrolls currently were topping those of 1929 while Christmas savings club funds now being distributed were well above that period.

DROPPED FLARE BEFORE CRASH

Witness Helps Three From Plane Wreckage, One Dies In Arms.

flames, and I couldn't look again. I turned away."

Richard Rocax, an airport attendant, said he noticed the ship coming in but didn't know anything was wrong.

"Then, suddenly, the motors roared," he said, "the plane's nose dipped, and it crashed. It happened so quick it would be hard to say just what I did see. I can't guess what happened. There wasn't much wind and visibility was pretty good, although there was some mist."

Raymond Dutch, another airport employe, said:

"The ship had its lights on so I could see it plainly enough although it was getting dark. I guess it was up about 400 feet when it began to wobble. Then the wing went down, and the crash came. I suspect the plane 'fell off' because it lacked flying speed. It looked that way to me."

Richard Seigwart, 15, a newsboy, said "I was scared stiff when I saw the plane hit." He added:

"I couldn't get very close, but people sure got to the plane in a hurry. Before firemen arrived, a man climbed in and carried out two people. Then others came and soon the injured were all around, moaning. I tried to do something to help, but I guess they thought a kid would just be in the way."

BRITISH GET 20 BOMBERS

Flying Fortresses Released as Financial Aid Comes Up For Study.

Statements by two high administration fiscal officials — federal reserve board Chairman Marriner S. Eccles and Secretary of Commerce and Federal Loan Administrator Jesse H. Jones—aroused further speculation over possible future financial aid to Britain.

The "flying fortresses"—huge, four-engined Boeing B-17s, originally ordered by the army air corps—were released after several weeks of negotiations. Consideration of their release was announced last month when the army permitted the British to take prior delivery on 26 consolidated four-motored bombers. At least one of these has been delivered the remainder will be ready by March 1, 1941.

The "flying fortresses" are now being fitted with Sperry bombsights, recently released by the army. The Sperry sight is considered highly efficient but the army and navy have displaced it with the highly secret and reputedly more accurate, Norden sight.

EIGHT KILLED IN CRASH OF BIG AIRLINER

Eight Others Injured as Plane Fails To Reach Chicago Landing Field.

announcement of their preliminary findings.

THE DEAD

Capt. Philip C. Scott, 34, Chicago, the pilot.

First officer George S. Young, 30, Oak Park, Ill., the co-pilot.

Stuard W. Moore, U. S. ordinance engineer, Cleveland.

Wilbert J. Austin, 64, Cleveland, president of the Austin company, a firm of industrial engineers and builders.

Miss Jane Selby, 27, Akron, O., employe of a Chicago candy company.

Keller F. Melton, 40, Chicago, WPA safety engineer

Charles W. Manville, 38, Cleveland, general sales manager National Refiners' company.

Manville and Melton, both of whom suffered fractured skulls and other injuries, died early this morning in Holy Cross hospital.

Lee F. Haneline, 38, Downers Grove, Ill., eastern division superintendent of reservations, United Air Lines.

Stewardess Florence M Little, 23, Chicago basal skull fracture internal injuries.

Owen M Frederick, 52, Olmstead, Ohio, civilian engineer employed at Cleveland by the U. S. army. Fractured shoulder, broken nose and jaw.

George Haig, 45, partner in the Haig and Francisco firm, photographic advertisers, Dayton, O., fractured arm

Paul Ryan, 40, Cleveland, president, National Refiners company. Leg, arm and head injuries.

Rolliston G. Woodbury, 41, New York City, vice president, Textile Banking company. Fractured leg, scalp wound and lacerations of hands.

Theodore F. Paulsen, 40, Wilmette, Ill., department head, Montgomery Ward and Company. Fractured skull, nose and leg.

Leo Wolins, 37, Chicago contractor, fractured collarbone.

Richard R. Pettite, 26, Bostonia, Calif., and New York attorney. Fractured spine and ribs, concussion of brain

The flight began at New York and stops were made at Philadelphia, Akron, O., and Cleveland. Dissatisfied with the performance of one motor, Capt. Scott was given another plane at Cleveland to which crew and passengers were transferred.

A light snow was falling when the plane reached Chicago. Weather reports put the ceiling at 1,200 feet and the visibility at one mile. Planes had been landing in routine fashion.

The airliner circled the airport for 28 minutes awaiting landing orders from the traffic tower. It headed in from the southeast after getting clarance orders and Co-Pilot Young radioed that the ground could be seen.

Richard Rocas, an employe at the airport, said the plane was making a "perfectly normal" approach to the field when suddenly the motors roared as if the pilot tried to attain height

"The plane's nose dipped down and it turned slightly to the left," he said "Then it hit the ground and broke into flames."

The first passenger able to tell of the accident was Woodbury who said:

"The ship circled the airport for some minutes. All I remember about the smash-up is that the wing tilted, there was a crash, a woman screamed and I lost consciousness."

Woodbury asserted that there was no sign of anything at fault with the plane as it circled the airport.

Capt. Scott had been with the United Air Lines for eight years. He was a former University of Minnesota hockey star, captaining the 1923 team. He was married and had one child, a two-year old boy. Officer Young had been flying United's New York-Chicago route for about a year.

Austin was enroute to Los Angeles on business, members of his family said at Cleveland. In 1924 he became president of the firm, builder of some of the nation's largest industrial plants. He was survived by his widow and three children.

The crash was the third fatal accident on commercial airlines in the past four months. A Pennsylvania Central Airline plane fell near Lovettsville, Va., last Aug. 31, killing 25. Ten died when a UAL plane struck a Utah mountainside Nov. 4.

Vice President Herlihy said that the crash was the second in the company's 10 years of operation on the Cleveland-Chicago route, during which 55,000 trips have been flown.

Changed Planes At Cleveland

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Dissatisfied with the performance of one engine, Capt. Philip Scott, pilot of the United Air Lines plane that crashed in Chicago, changed ships before leaving Cleveland airport, it was learned today. Scott lost his life in the crackup.

Scott taxied the ship to the United hangar when he noticed the engine was not performing properly and passengers, crew, mail and baggage were transferred to the plane which later crashed in landing at Chicago airport.

30 Days of Hard Labor and $20 Fines Imposed.

CAMP SHELBY, Miss.—(U.P.)—Two Cleveland soldiers who went home "A.W.O.L." last month from Camp Shelby today drew penalties of 30 days of hard labor and $20 fines.

Robert J. Oswald and Carl R. Tylecki pleaded guilty to charges of being absent without leave but received a military trial before sentence was made, in pursuance of military custom.

Tylecki returned to the Mississippi military post voluntarily.

Oswald was arrested in Cleveland and sent back. Both were mess orderlies.

Save your lists of families from day to day.

Family No. 1.

Two adults, four children, all under 10 years. Part time on relief. There has been considerable sickness in the family, including a recent case of scarlet fever. Father did work on WPA but too ill now for out door work. Particularly worthy family and will have no Christmas unless some one provides it

Family No. 2.

Two adults and seven children, five in school. The father has been in a hospital for serious eye operations during the past year. Is employed in private industry and makes a fair wage but it is totally inadequate for the needs of nine persons Is not on relief but has a difficult time "making ends meet." Is appreciative of kindness.

Family No. 3.

Father two girls and two boys. Mother died in 1933 and father has struggled to keep his family together and raise his children. Has a small business in his home, but has income only large enough to provide absolute necessities. Has a home but it is mortgaged. Oldest girl helps father to care for younger children. Youngest child is three years old. Father is naturalized citizen.

Family No. 4.

Three girls—12, 13 and 14 years—and a boy 8, live with unemployed father and try to make a home for him This family needs a basket to brighten their Christmas and is desperately in need of clothing. Children and father need underwear The girls also need slips and coats and the boy needs a sweater. Would be excellent family for some class to adopt for Christmas and fit out with clothing.

Family No. 5.

Man and wife, alone, middle-aged and both practically invalids. He has been in the Dayton military hospital during the past year and is unable to work. His wife is an invalid. They have no children and are very lonely. A basket would brighten the holiday for them. She needs a dress (size 16) and a sweater and he needs shoes.

Family No. 6.

Young colored girl working way through school would be very happy to have someone "big sister" her. She lives with an aunt and works over the week-ends, making a very small amount of money a week. She is ambitious, wants to finish public school and then take up nursing. A basket for her and her aunt and hose and underwear for her would keep her at her ambitious resolves with a much lighter heart.

Family No. 7.

Here's a family that needs furniture almost as badly as it needs Christmas cheer. There are six children — three in school — and the father is employed part time by a taxi company to work out his rent. Their furniture was recently taken by a finance company and they need the essential pieces. Eight in the family.

LOST IN SNOW

St. Bernards Reverse Role, Police Hunt Them.

BUFFALO, N. Y. — (U.P.) — A heavy snow was falling when the telephone rang in the Buffalo police station.

"I want to report a loss," Alois Grace told the desk sergeant.

"My two dogs are lost in the snowstorm."

"Description, please," the sergeant said.

"They're St. Bernards."

LUDIN BAGS DEER

SHELBY — Volunteer Fireman F. P. Ludin returned this week from Pennsylvania with a 125-pound deer. He was accompanied on the hunting trip by Tom Kelser of this city.

Mansfield Hunters Each Bag a Deer

It didn't take two Mansfield hunters very long to get their deer on a hunting trip this week to Clarendon, Pa. M. L. Schmid, shown at the left, and G. L Walker, at the right, both of 105 Raleigh avenue, each bagged a deer Monday, the first day they were out. They left Mansfield by auto Sunday, bagged the two deer the next day and returned to Mansfield yesterday. One of the deer weighed 220 pounds and the other 150 pounds.

the professional manner in which it had been presented.

An interesting sidelight on the event was the "coverage" of the play by Hope Bromfield, the author's daughter, for her high school paper, the John Simpson Times. Whatever she thinks of her father's play will be in her story in the next issue of the school paper

"The best behaved dog in the world" was the enthusiastic title conferred on "Whiskers" the wire-haired terrior who made a number of appearances in the show. He was carried on by Aunt Min (Mrs. Rhea Bauer, a number of times and each time he behaved like a veteran. Like Mrs. Bauer he was strictly in the amateur class, this being his first stage appearance. He didn't let out so much as a "yip," and by the second night he had learned his entrances and exits. When he left the stage he trotted to the back stage, jumped up on a chair and sat there until Mrs. Bauer picked him up again for another entrance. If they sat him up on the piano between scenes he sat there without noise or fuss.

The name of Richard Olin who did a very good job as Mr. Soloman in the third act was inadvertently left off the printed programs. Instead of suffering a temperamental huff, Olin printed on the outside of his program: "This is to certify that Richard Olin played the role of Mr. Soloman in Here Today, Gone Tomorrom and the omission of his name from the program is not necessarily our opinion of him as an actor." He asked Bromfield and Hawkins to sign it, merely as a souvenir. Beneath their names Bromfield added "He did a grand job" and Hawkins added "An how!"

There are still general admission and a few reserved seats left for the Lucas performance tonight. The curtain is scheduled for 8:15. After the performance the community will give a supper for members of the cast at the school house. Mrs. David Culler is in charge of the affair.

railroad to the Erie railroad tracks, which would include the span approaches.

Council had appropriated money this year for the paving of the span approaches, but all but a few dollars of it has been re-allocated for other street department needs. No money was appropriated this year for the improvement of the balance of the street between the railroad tracks.

At the time the bridge was built by the county, with WPA assistance, an agreement was reached that the city would be responsible for paving the approaches. The commissioners charged in their letter that the approaches were in dangerous condition and that they would accept no responsibility in the event of an accident due to the roughness of the approaches. The city filled in some of the holes this week.

SEIZE PREMET, THREATEN TWO ITALIAN BASES

Greeks Drive on Porto Edda, Have Chance to Trap Foe at River Junction.

river lay before the Greek forces at Premet for an advance on Tepelini, river port junction of the Viosa and Dyrno rivers

The fall of Premet followed fierce fighting in which the Italians suffered heavy casualties and the loss of considerable equipment, the Greek high command reported. More than 500 Fascist troops were said to have surrendered.

Premet is about 15 miles inside the Albanian frontier. Porto Edda, main Italian debarkation point in southern Albania, is about 30 miles to the southwest. Argirocastro, another important Italian base, is about midway between the two towns.

The Italians also were reported to be retreating on the northern flank of the 100-mile battlefront, where the Greeks said their forces captured important mountain positions northwest of Pogradetz in a drive toward Elbasan, and the Albanian capital, Tirana The exact point reached by the spearhead of the Greek advance in this sector was not disclosed

Here, too, the Greek high command said, the Italians suffered heavy losses in men and equipment.

From Porto Edda the Italians were reported retiring along the Adriatic seacoast toward Chimara, some 25 miles to the northwest.

Italian reports that Greek attacks had been beaten off all along the front were characterized by an army spokesman as "simply figments of the imagination for home consumption."

Italians Admit Turin Bombing

ROME — (INS) — An enemy bombing attack on Turin was announced by the Italian high command today.

(Editor's Note: The British air ministry in London announced that RAF bombers raided targets in Turin during the night.)

The Italian war bulletin also claimed that a Greek destroyer had been sunk in the Aegean sea.

One person was killed, three were injured, and several fires were started in the Turin raid, the announcement said.

The fires were reported to have been confined to a weaving mill and a wallpaper factory. No damage was reported to military objectives.

The torpedoing of the unamed Greek destroyer occurred last Friday when the coastal-submarine Delfino fired one of her 21-inch tubes. The communique gave no further details.

On the Greek front, the high command reported that action was confined to "attacks and counter-attacks."

The continued bombing of Greek positions, communications, and troop concentrations also was reported. Five enemy planes were reported shot down along the Greek front. Two Italian machines were said to be missing.

Nazis Report Birmingham Hit

BERLIN —(U.P.)— Several waves of German planes raided London and Birmingham last night, the official Germany news agency DNB said today.

"A number of militarily important objectives in southern England and the Midlands were subjected to far-reaching destruction," DNB said. "There were further attacks against various towns on the English south coast."

The agency said German anti-aircraft fire last night brought down three British planes. Three German planes were lost over England yesterday.

A number of British planes last night raided western Germany, dropping bombs and damaging a number of private houses, the high command continued, saying Germany and Britain each lost three airplanes yesterday.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1940.

There's such a thing as fame degenerating into notoriety—as in the case of John Barrymore.

Another advantage of "the good old days" was that the only disturbing night noise was a distant locomotive whistle.

Then there is the fellow who didn't order coal—because he had installed four gadgets, each of which was guaranteed to "cut the fuel bill 25 per cent."

Boy Scout Program Expanded

AMERICA prefers peace and has built for peace—not war. Its present military preparations are intended for the preservation of peace, with no thought of aggressive warfare in mind.

But it has been demonstrated before, and is again being convincingly proved, that self preservation demands equipment and manpower sufficient to meet any attack that may be made upon this nation.

American boys are not "raised to be soldiers," but they are reared to meet any emergency that may confront them—including defensive war, if need be.

So it comes about that America's young manhood stands high in the inventory of resources, soon to inherit the privileges, duties and responsibilities of citizenship.

What more natural, therefore, than that the Boy Scout organization should be accorded recognition in defense preparations and an effort made to build each scout troop to full strength of 32 members, with a "nation-wide long-term Good Turn" as an objective.

Emphasis is being placed by the Boy Scouts of America National Council on advancement through the Scout ranks by zeal, efficiency and promptness in emergencies, so that every member will be at the peak of effectiveness.

Any suspicion there may have been at one time that Boy Scout training in uniforms was intended to create militaristic spirit no longer exists and this organization has long been recognized as one of the finest character-building activities in the country—building for the requirements of fine manhood and good citizenship, whatever those requirements may be.

Beware of Unjust Suspicions

SUDDEN increase in the number of fires, explosions and other accidents in armament works and elsewhere is naturally attributed to sabotage on the part of aliens or other persons opposed to the defense program and aid to Britain. It is important that the proper authorities should investigate such happenings thoroughly and punish any subversive activities discovered.

It is important, also, that people remain as calm as possible and not start looking with suspicion on neighbors or fellow workers with foreign names. Accidents may occur because of the pressure for speed in all defense work and the inexperience of some workers. Every possible precaution and every industrial safety rule, should be observed to keep down the number of accidents. Workers should be trained before being assigned to any task of dangerous nature. The precautions necessary in times of normal production are doubly so today.

Decade of World Events Pictured

A PANORAMA of world events, covering the 11-year period from 1929 until the present, is the tremendous accomplishment which has made "World in Flames" one of the most talked about and highly recommended motion pictures of the year.

Now being locally shown, "World in Flames" serves to refresh recollection of the headline happenings of the past decade in the United States, Europe and throughout the world. Brought together in this way, opportunity is provided for better understanding of the course of events which led to the rise of Hitlerism in Germany, the persecution of minorities, the ruthless invasions of small independent nations in Europe and the present onslaught on Great Britain.

It was of this picture that President Roosevelt said: "I hope no one in America will be too busy to give it sixty-two minutes of his time," and Wendell Willkie said: "It is a forceful summary of the world situation today. I think every American should see it."

America's participation in the first World war, considered in association with defense preparations being made, naturally arouses interest in tracing causes of conditions that now exist. "World in Flames" offers a valuable contribution to history in the making.

Saner Course for Japan

ADMIRAL KICHISABURO NOMURA, newly-appointed Japanese ambassador to this country, is right when he says that "war between the United States and Japan would be a tragedy for civilization."

There are no differences between the two governments which cannot be solved by time and statecraft. War always leads to war, because the loser of the first round seeks revenge in a second, and so on.

It would be a wonderful happening for the whole world if those in command in Japan adopted Admiral Nomura's view, ended the "Chinese incident," stopped threatening other parts of the Orient, and really sought, with the United States and other peace-loving governments, to apply sound statesmanship and healing time to the solution of the world's troubles.

Planting More Trees

TREE-PLANTING has become a popular practice in Illinois. State Forester Tomasek reported recently that land owners have ordered nearly seven million young trees from state nurseries for spring planting. It is likely that private nurseries are experiencing increased business, too.

A definite reforestation program got under way in Illinois in 1938 with the planting of 300,000 trees. The number has increased every year until last spring it reached 6,147,000. Many communities now have good-sized community forests started, while smaller places have used vacant property for less pretentious beginnings.

These activities indicate a reassuring tendency but should not make anyone imagine that the national timber acreage is in danger of becoming too large. Forest fires and other perils, such as the hurricane that produced 3,600,000,000 feet of fallen timber in 1938, necessitate a continuing forestry movement. It is realized now that timber is a steady and profitable crop resource as well as a weather and moisture stabilizer and a defender against soil erosion.

SO SAY WE ALL

...AND WE FERVENTLY HOPE THAT ALL KINDLY MEN AND WOMEN WILL DO THEIR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING EARLY THIS YEAR— AND AVOID INCONVENIENCE, DISAPPOINTMENT AND LAST-MINUTE CONFUSION...AMEN!

Hope for Great Britain Bolstered

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—The two most encouraging phases of the war, from the standpoint of hoping that Britain holds out, are that Germany is suffering a great deal more in damage to her own war production than any dispatches have indicated, and that the Italian fiasco in Greece has postponed a successful attack on Egypt and Suez until next winter

British production of airplanes has been badly hurt by the German air raids, but imports from the United States now amount to slightly above 300 fighters and bombers a month. This is behind schedule, incidentally. United States production of all classes of planes is about 200 a month behind schedule.

But the number of combat planes is now actually about 300 each month, and this number is being slowly increased each month. Sometime in early summer, assuming Britain holds out, there will be a sharp increase in production. A little later, depending entirely on how rapidly the Detroit group of automobile people get into actual production, there will be another sharp rise.

It is all a question of whether Britain can take it until quantity deliveries begin. Information in diplomatic circles here now is more encouraging on that than at any time in the last six months, and this despite the bad news about the damage to plants in Britain.

WHILE President Roosevelt talks about our own national defense needing one half of our production of planes, actually practically all the fighting planes are being sent to Britain. This is not as one-sided as it sounds. Our army and navy want training planes for student pilots far more than they want fighting planes. This situation is likely to continue for some time to come.

But while Germany's production of planes has been cut down as a result of British bombing, according to confidential reports received here, the Nazi losses have not been heavy in the last couple of months. Had they continued the mass raids they began in early September, according to at least one observer, they would have won the war in a month. But there is another side of that picture. Had their losses continued at the rate of 200 a day, they might have lost their air superiority before they won the war.

MEANWHILE the thrust at Suez seems stymied for the time being. It is the consensus of military experts that big-scale operations in that area, including Egypt, can be conducted only in the winter. During the hot months it is not only a question of men from more northern climes standing it, but the difficulties of supply are enormously increased.

Had Mussolini gone through the Greeks as rapidly as he expected, the Suez campaign could have been fought this winter. No matter how successful some new Italian attack on Greece may be now, it is not thought likely that the next step toward Suez could be taken while the cool weather lasts

Listen World!

Always an England

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

IT GRIPS one hard, that song the Britons are chanting these days, "There'll always be an England!" It grips because it means so much more than it says, and the simplest sailor on Limehouse docks knows that meaning and would give his life to put it across.

For it's not simply a question of a certain people preserving their small island and their personal profits. It means that there'll always be a dream, conscious or unconscious, in the heart of every man, regardless of race—a dream of decency and fair play which he'll hold, in a pinch, above comfort or safety, profit, pleasure—or life itself.

We're not such a much, we humans, generally speaking. Still tainted with and clinging to that "dust" from which we were made . . . selfish, stupid, silly, cowardly, cruel. But just when we seem most hopeless, something lovely and eternally brave flames above the clay, as it is flaming in England today. And all the hosts of hell shall not prevail against it!

Those youngsters in the R. A. F.—there's nothing finer in human history than their dogged pluck. Mere kids, for the most part . . . awkward, grinning kids who were plodding hopelessly through grimy grammers in some country school a year ago, chewing their nails or their warts . . . wiping freckled noses on patched sleeves.

Yet, tonight, they're filling the nightmare darkness of all the world with the rush and wonder of their wings!

They aren't saying much about it or, I suspect, even thinking much. It isn't their way to do either. They're simply taking it all in their stride as their fathers' fathers did before them. Here's a job and they're going to do it. That's all. "Blimey if I knows 'ow but we'll muddle through some way, matey." And muddle through they will. For behind that "job" lies a Voice—the one Voice which will never pass from this earth as long as there's a heart to heal or a wavering faith to steady. And, all unknowing, those clowning, battling boys are that Voice made manifest.

Over the roar and shriek, the smoke and madness . . . over the clamor of their own young fear and the coiling cold of their exhausted blood . . . that deep Voice rises, strong and serene, calling to a frantic world:

"Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest . . .

"And fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell . . .

"Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing?

"And one of them shall not fall to the ground without your Father . . . Fear ye not therefore, ye are of more value than many swallows . . .

"He that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal . . .

"Let not your heart be troubled . . . In my Father's house are many mansions . . . I go to prepare a place for you . . .

"AND I, IF I BE LIFTED UP FROM THE EARTH WILL DRAW ALL MEN UNTO ME."

"And if I be lifted up." They have been lifted up, those winged warriors who yesterday were boys. They have been lifted up, as the Other was lifted up, above poverty and obscurity, above their own passion and pain, that there may "always be an England"—always a dream of something nobler than greed and hate in the heart of every man.

Willkie Clubs to Decide Future, Party Leaders Continue Hostile

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The future of the Willkie clubs will be decided at a pow-wow of state leaders which generalissimo Oren Root has called for the middle of this month.

Only club chiefs, such as Russell Davenport and a few other Willkie intimates, will participate in the meeting. No Republican party leaders are being invited, and even Willkie himself does not expect to be present, although he may change his mind.

Young Root's private plan is to form the clubs into a nation-wide organization around Willkie, absolutely independent of the Republican party. Root has never been on good terms with GOP leaders, many of whom consider him a meddling amateur with secret designs on the party organization.

During the campaign, Willkie was bombarded with irate GOP complaints against Root. At one time he found it necessary to circulate among all national committeemen a letter from Root disavowing any intention to distribute patronage or intrude in party affairs.

While Willkie received thousands of letters acclaiming his post-election "loyal opposition" broadcast, and while many Willkie club enthusiasts desire to continue the organization, privately Root and Davenport are uncertain about the prospects. Some local clubmen have expressed doubts over the possibility of keeping their groups together in the face of Republican party hostility and without a "crusade" atmosphere.

Meanwhile, Willkie has had a few brushes with Republican national committeemen, who resented "orders" from him. There has been no real row, but the politicos let him know that they do not consider him the party's boss.

British Invasion.

THE BRITISH are coming to Washington at the rate that almost amounts to a second invasion. Even in 1814, when the Redcoats burned the Capitol, their force was scarcely more impressive.

Actually there are 430 representatives of the British government in Washington today — 130 members of the embassy staff, 300 members of the British Purchasing Commission and British Air Commission. The figure includes everyone—officers, clerks, messengers, and chauffeurs.

The British embassy and chancery now is the largest diplomatic establishment in Washington, but it is not large enough. An annex has been added to care for an overflow of coding clerks and officials of the office of Economic Warfare.

Meanwhile the two British commissions occupy space in four other buildings. They started out in modest quarters in the Hibbs building, expanded to the entire top floor of the Willard hotel, added further space in the Adams building, and most recently have taken over Andrew Mellon's old apartment building at 1785 Massachusetts avenue to accommodate the Air Commission.

These are the British in Washington alone. In addition, the New York office of the purchasing commission numbers 1,000 persons, plus 500 inspectors who travel about the country testing the wide assortment of articles, from ships to airplanes, which are being purchased in the United States.

Three-Pen Signature.

THE Ramspeck Civil Service Act has a dual distinction. In addition to extending civil service rating to more unclassified government employes than any similar law in history (about 150,000) it also required longer to sign.

The long-drawn out signature was because the president had promised a pen used in the signing ceremony to each of three people: Representative Bob Ramspeck of Georgia and Senator Jim Mead of New York, co-sponsors of the bill; and Representative Jennings Randolph of West Virginia, ranking member of the civil service committee.

This meant splitting his signature into three parts and using a different pen for each. The three pens were placed on his desk when he was ready to sign, but when he looked for the inkwell, it had mysteriously disappeared. After several minutes, White House Clerk Rudolph Forster finally produced the ink.

Then as the president was halfway through his signature, the second pen splattered a large blob of ink on the law. This required another pause, while the president painstakingly mopped up the smear with the corner of a blotter. Finally the signing was completed, having consumed ten full minutes.

"I'll bet," grinned Roosevelt, "that's the longest time any president ever took to sign his name."

Reform Via Army.

THE ARMY'S greatly expanded food requirements may become the means of forcing long-sought labor reforms in the canning industry, which is noted for its low labor standards, particularly among small plants.

In the past, the army bought canned goods chiefly through local jobbers and wholesalers. But with consumption increased hundred fold, the army plans to sidetrack the jobbers and go direct to the canners.

This opens the way for requiring the canners to comply with the wage-hour and Walsh-Healey acts, both of which have been a bitter bone of contention within the canning industry.

Army purchasing chiefs also are working on a plan for centralized buying of the enormous quantities of canned goods, meats, vegetables and other perishable foods which the draft army will need. Behind this is the desire to avoid a situation where various army quartermasters would bid against each other—to the enrichment of speculators and expense of the taxpayer.

Note — Procurement experts estimate that in some types of canned goods, army purchases will amount to 15 per cent of the total pack.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—This is a belated election item. Its hero is Arthur Lake, who still is paying off around the CBS studios. It wasn't that the star of the Blondie series picked the wrong candidate. It was worse than that. "I'll bet you," cried Lake, "that seven days after the election the banks will be closed and the streets will echo with the tramp of marching men." They tell me his friends mobbed each other trying to get close enough to get it on the line. The gag was a good one—except that Lake's figures were off. Armistice Day was only SIX days after election. . . .

IN OUR recent summary of outstanding performers, authors and composers, we named Bill Stern as our favorite sports announcer. Bill, it seems, figured in a wee bit of by-play the other day that had his honest face asweat for a few moments.

First, he asked Jim Crowley, Fordham's football coach, to submit to an interview on the air. Then, because Joe E. Brown was in town for that day only, he asked Jim if he would mind deferring his guest appearance so he could bring Brown to the mike. That was okay with Jim.

But just before the broadcast Crowley himself sauntered in and said, "I didn't get my script, Bill, but I'm here anyway."

"Didn't you get a notice of postponement?" cried Bill incredulously. "I've asked Joe E. Brown for this show."

"Guess he forgot," Crowley drawled. "I put him on a train for Boston an hour ago."

That put Bill down for a nine count, but coming back off the floor he grabbed a typewriter and was frantically trying to manufacture a new script when Crowley, the great big old practical joker, led a guffawing Joe E. Brown through the door.

A Farmer's Diary

A Nurse-To-Be

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

AT THE edge of the city I overtook a little girl, no more than 9 or 10, who came hurriedly out of a side street. The wind was cold and snow was in the air. The child shivered in a well-worn coat that seemed far too large. The sleeves covered her thin hands and the ample collar rose far above her ears. She wore no stockings and her slender legs were blue.

I slowed my car and called, "Do you want to ride?" She hesitated for an instant, then came running toward the open car door.

"Gee, this is warm," she said. "Nobody ever stopped to take me in. I didn't know what to say at first—that's why I hes—hesitated."

"Where do you live?" I wondered.

"Oh, back in that court," she waved toward the west. "We have three rooms. When daddy gets more money he'll build a house and put cars in there. This is just a makeshift, he says—but we've lived there two years already.

"Daddy had a good job at the mill 'til they got new machinery and turned off more'n a hundred men—and he was one. Since then he's been on WPA and glad to even make a livin'. He's worked every day except two months last winter—and then we all went hungry. Mother went out to work, though, and we got along without gettin help from nobody. Daddy said he was glad we could get through on our own steam.

"My mother works for the neighbors every Saturday and I do the work at home. Daddy helps me some. Then when everything looks cleaner'n it ever does he smiles and tells Mom what a nice little housekeeper I am. I kinda think Mom understands.

"I go to school a half a mile up here. Don't hurt me none to walk and I save the bus fare. Last week when it sleeted and rained I got wet through. The teacher let me stand by the radiator and dry out—most all forenoon. She's a nice teacher.

"I don't have clothes as good as some of the other girls. Mom makes them over, when my aunt sends them. They're clean, and Mom says they look all right. One day a girl who's rich asked me where I got my clothes and sorta smiled. I knew what she meant and cried when I got home.

"When I get big and finish high school I'm going to be a nurse. Then when Mom or Dad are sick I can come home and help. And I can help other poor folks that don't have any money. I know I'll never laugh at anybody that's poorer than I am. Mom says it costs less to learn to be a nurse than to go to school any place else—and then I'll get to wear a uniform. It'll seem mighty nice to dress just like everybody else, in a big hospital."

I stopped at her school and let her off. She waved to me brightly.

President Plans Development of Base at Guantanamo

ARRIVES WITH ADVISERS ON DEFENSE TOUR

Marines Absent as Roosevelt Makes First Stop In Caribbean Trip.

BULLETIN

ABOARD U. S. S. MAYRANT, Kingston, Jamaica — (UP)— President Roosevelt arrived today at this British colonial capital where the United States has obtained a defense base aboard the cruiser Tuscaloosa after a short run from Guantanamo, Cuba.

(By United Press)

ABOARD U. S. DESTROYER MAYRANT, In Guantanamo Harbor, Cuba — President Roosevelt made plans today for extensive development of this United States naval base, one of the chief links in the chain of defenses being developed to guard the United States and the western hemisphere.

The cruiser Tuscaloosa, carrying the president and his advisers, and the escorting destroyers Mayrant and Trippe, dropped anchor in the harbor last evening after a 24-hour run from Miami.

The halt here apparently was only the first stop in Mr Roosevelt's tour of United States Caribbean defense bases, including those leased from Great Britain in exchange for 50 overage destroyers He did not however, announce the details of his itinerary The run from Miami was made at about 27 knots in perfect weather.

Mr. Roosevelt was conferring with Capt George L Weyler, commandant of the naval base, Commander J. F Hooker the medical officer, and Col William Rupertus, senior marine officer

Some 5,000 marines now stationed at Guantanamo were absent, but the president was informed they were engaged in landing exercises on nearby Culebera island

The naval base officer, however, gave Mr Roosevelt detailed reports of the progress of barracks and sanitary precautions preliminary to the enlargement of the base which is on the southeast coast of Cuba and dominates the Windward passage from the Atlantic to the Caribbean and the Straits of Florida

Gambling Money Ordered Paid to Book Operators

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The Ohio supreme court holds that money obtained by peace officers in raids on gambling places cannot be confiscated along with gambling equipment.

The decision upheld Lorain county courts in requiring return of $487 to Max and Louis Jacobs of Lorain.

The Jacobs brothers' horse race booking establishment was raided and the money seized along with gambling equipment. They pleaded guilty and paid fines, but when they asked for the return of their money it was refused.

They then sought redress in the courts, which ruled that while the law authorizes confiscation of gambling equipment, there is no provision for confiscation of money belonging to operators or patrons of a gambling place

NEW YORK —(UP)— An army "flying fortress," ordered to "mercy" duty by President Roosevelt, takes off from Mitchell field today on a mission which may save the life of Senora Carlos Davila, wife of a former president of Chile and former Chilean ambassador to the United States

The plane, a huge four-motored bomber, will carry Senora Davila, who has been seriously ill for months, to her home in Santiago, Chile.

Senora Davila underwent two operations of an undisclosed character and when she suffered a general breakdown doctors advised she go home to Chilean summer

SENATOR'S WIDOW TELLS OF FRAUD PRACTICED BY CULT

(By International News Service)

LOS ANGELES — The "I Am" religious organization of Los Angeles was to have cured the late U S Senator Thomas D. Schall of Minnesota of his 25 years of blindness according to testimony of his widow Mrs Margaret Huntley Schall, on file in federal court today.

Mrs. Schall was one of the first witnesses to appear in the mail fraud trial of ten leaders of the movement which opened in Judge Leon Yankwich s court.

"My husband' she began, "had been blind for 25 years—and they told me I could cure him by visualizing some kind of light rays"

She then detailed how she had attended meetings conducted by Mrs. Edna Ballard, present leader of the movement, and her late husband Guy W. Ballard, founder of the organization.

"Mrs. Balard told me that if I could visualize a ray of light coming down to his head and leaving it at right angles through his eyes, he would be cured," Mrs. Schall testified

She said she had spend "many hundreds of dollars" in connection with "I Am" classes, but was unable to cure Schall's blindness.

The question of "precipitation" as taught to her by the Ballards and other "I Am' leaders was described by Mrs Schall at length —along with 'love gift envelopes' which were discussed at every meeting.

"Mrs. Ballard told me that if I looked into the atmosphere, I could see particles of light sparkling, which was the exact substance used by the ascended masters in precipitating all material needs She said the masters could precipitate clothes, money automobiles— anything . . . but I never seemed to locate any sparkles"

Mrs Schall related how she came to Los Angeles in 1937 and attended numerous "I Am' meetings. She told of contributing numerous sums of money ranging from $100 to $250 to the "movement"

Mrs Ballard her son Donald and eight others are specifically accused of soliciting funds through the mail by fraudulent means

GREEK GUNNERS PRAY BETWEEN SHOTS AT FOE

Beseech Aid of Patroness of Gunpowder Against Porto Edda Walls.

By PAUL PALEOLOGOS
(UP Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE GREEK ARMY on Heights Overlooking Porto Edda — I watched Greek artillerymen celebrate the feast of their patron St Barbara today with a merciless bombardment of Porto Edda

There were few lulls in the firing, from zero hour this morning to dusk, but whenever one came, the Greeks crowded around white shrines or knelt beside their guns and prayed to the patroness of gunpowder

The gunners were red-eyed from loss of sleep but were anxious to end the battle for this vital Albanian port and they worked tirelessly to send a stream of shells screaming into the Italian emplacements

Smaller guns gradually were slogged into new positions ahead while heavy batteries dumped shells on the other side of the town, where Italian tanks were reported concentrating.

I watched 30-year-old artillery Capt Micho jot down a message heliographed (by the sun's reflection in a mirror) from the summit snatch a telephone and give new ranges to his battery hidden near a shell-torn farmhouse whose walls still bore placards reading "Viva Albania Fascista' Viva Il Duce!"

Micho told me the Italians already had moved their heavy guns away from Porto Edda to prevent their capture and that the shells bursting on a ridge ahead of us were from Italian light artillery

"Our heavies will soon silence them" the curly-haired captain said

Italian planes appeared and dropped bombs blindly, hoping to hit a hidden Greek battery. When Greek chasers arrived, the Italian planes fled.

Lorry after lorry arrived with loads of shells, which moved in an almost endless stream to the foremost batteries and points between The front batteries soon were blasting the last Italian defenders down a hillside on the outskirts of town with point blank fire. Light guns were taken across marshes at the foot of the hill on rafts by Greek Evzones troops They broke the resistance of the Italian Sienna division which had counterattacked in an attempt to hold a last bridgehead

Several Italian strongholds on the edge of town received hundreds of direct hits. They were burning by mid-day The sharp barks of the Greek 75's, and the deep roar of heavy guns are followed by clouds of dust rising high over housetops around the target as I write this The Evzones are waiting impatiently for orders to storm the town but the officers want to give the Italians time to evacuate and prevent as much bloodshed as possible

URGING BIGGER SHARE OF OHIO TAX REVENUES

County Auditors To Approve Resolution; 7 From County Attend Sessions.

A resolution asking for a larger share of state sales tax funds for cities and counties was scheduled for approval today by the Association of Ohio County Auditors in Columbus despite opposition of Gov John W Bricker to a change in the financial set-up.

The legislative committee of the association which is holding its annual convention in Columbus, prepared the resolution Seven Richland county officials and deputies attended the sessions.

A resolution that the distribution of automobile license money be returned to the system used in 1932, 1933 and 1934 when much of the money went into the general fund of the local subdivisions also was prepared

The money now is earmarked for road and bridge funds and cannot be used to bolster general funds short of cash.

The governor voiced opposition to additional financial aid from the state yesterday at a joint meeting of the auditors, the association of county treasurers of Ohio and the Ohio Sealers' association.

He warned that new levies would keep new industries from Ohio and drive business out of the state.

Meeting at the same time in Columbus, the Ohio Sheriffs' association re-elected Sheriff William S Souter of Erie county president and chose Sheriff Dale Hammond of Ashland county and Sheriff A H French of Crawford county as trustees of the association.

Attending the auditors' and treasurers' meetings from Richland county were Auditor Norman L. Wolfe, Deputy Auditor Arthur S. Beck, Treasurer John E. Kolb, Treasurer-elect Charles Payne, Recorder Howard Wenning, Harry Koch, deputy sealer of weights and measures, and Mrs Mildred Brady, a deputy in the auditor's office.

CHICKEN POX ON INCREASE

Blamed For Boost Shown In Disease Report For City During November.

Reflecting a wave of chicken pox current in the city during the past month, communicable disease in Mansfield during November showed a marked increase over the previous month, public health authorities reported today.

During the 30-day period a total of 101 cases on contagious diseases were reported to the city health department as compared to 60 cases reported in October, Dr. Roy C. Rehder, commissioner, said.

Largest increase was shown in chicken pox, the number of cases jumping from seven in October to 40 last month. This is a slight increase over the 31 cases reported in November, 1939, and the 27 cases reported in the same month two years ago.

There was also reported 29 cases of whooping cough, 20 cases of venereal diseases, eight cases of scarlet fever and one each of measels, mumps, pneumonia and tuberculosis

Dr. Rehder said the increase of chicken pox was no cause for alarm in view of the fact that child diseases annually show increases following the opening of the fall school term

CONFER MONDAY ON PLANS TO START CLASSES

School Officials To Meet In Ashland on Proposal For Rural Defense Courses.

Plans for setting up defense classes in rural high schools in Richland and nearby counties will be discussed at a meeting of school heads and vocational teachers Monday afternoon at Ashland high school.

Supt. of Schools Boyd Robinson, who will head a delegation from Richland county, said the meeting was called by the state department of education.

A survey is already under way in Richland county communities to determine how many persons would enroll in the defense classes if they are started in the county.

Supt. Robinson said at least 10 must indicate they will take the courses in each school before an expenditure can be made to start the training. Approximately a half dozen high schools, including Lucas, Bellville, Lexington and Ontario, are equipped for the defense classes.

Following a program now in operation at Mansfield Senior high school, the courses would provide training in mechanics, cabinet making, electrical work and vocational subjects.

Late afternoon and evening classes would be conducted so as not to interfere with the regular school class work. In some cases special teachers would be employed to conduct the classes. The federal government is financing the courses.

Walks Wrong Way But He's Headed Right Direction

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—(AP)—A migrant worker applied to the state welfare board's Camp Blanding surplus commodity distribution point for groceries to tide him over until he received his first paycheck.

Foot-weary and bedraggled, he told welfare officers he had walked two miles in the wrong direction, then two more miles before finding the distribution depot. Picking up the 40 pounds of food allotted to him, he started trudging the two miles to where his family was camped.

Hours later the same man, looking very tired but relieved, showed up again and dumped the same 40-pound load on the counter. He explained that just as he got back to his camp, another worker who had already been paid offered to stake him until his check came in—so he returned the free food in order that it might be given to someone in greater need.

Then he turned and started the two-mile walk back home.

SONG STIFFLED.

DECORAH, Ia. — (U.P.) — Prof. Theodore Hoelty-Nickel, head of the music department at Luther college here, says he now finds ironic the title of a song he wrote and dedicated to a Norwegian chorus. The title is "The Song of Freedom."

WOODSMAN'S AX BEGINS FELLING CHRISTMAS TREES FOR AMERICA

PEMBROKE, Me. — (AP) — The woodsman's ax, echoing through forest reaches, rings a prelude to the music of another Christmas.

From the depths of Maine's green forests to the slopes of the Rockies, lumbermen and farmers are felling the year's crop of Christmas trees.

Moving by railroad and truck already is the vanguard of millions of balsam fir and spruce, bound for their holiday garb of tinsel and colored lights.

The national Christmas tree business is big business. It is an estimated $10,000,000 proposition.

Maine alone furnishes about a million trees.

The Maine farmer or lumberman will receive about four cents apiece for his trees, but the retail market price again is expected to range from 25 cents to $1.50. If there's a shortage, it'll be even more. Several years ago, when heavy snows held up many shipments, some New Yorkers paid as much as $40 for a single tree.

The industry is short-lived and fiercely competitive, but there's money in it for the individual who hustles.

The weather always is a factor. If it is too warm, the appearance of the trees is spoiled, and they do not have a ready sale. If there are too many trees shipped to one center, the market there is broken.

'And," says the years-wise tree broker, "nothing is such a drug on the market as a Christmas tree the day after Christmas."

ROBS DENTIST.

RICHMOND, Ind. — (U.P.) — A man paced the floor of the office of Dr. J. W. Gans, dentist. Two patients were called in their turn and still the man paced. When his turn finally came he poked a gun in Dr. Gans' ribs, bound the dentist and his son, Jack, with strips of an apron and robbed the office of $25.

STUDENT TYPE CALLED MYTH

Educator Says There's No Such Thing as Typical 'Joe College.'

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—(UP)—There is no such thing as a typical "Joe College" or "Betty Co-ed," in the opinion of Pauline Locklin, assistant professor of English literature at Pennsylvania State college.

"There is no more a student type than there is a student nose," Miss Locklin asserted. "No two students can be depended upon to think alike about anything. Students are all kinds of young people who happen to be attending college."

Miss Locklin, who makes a hobby of collecting generalizations about college students, said that the public's concept of the "average college student" is based on mere superficialities.

"College students are no more alike in what they eat or drink or wear or think than any other group of people anywhere," she said.

This lack of differentiation from the habits of other young people as regards college students extends to clothing styles, drinking and to humor.

"The so-called collegiate type of humor is a myth," she concluded.

'Miss Sunshine'

Miss Orpha Ohlsen who will represent Long Beach at Southern California's All-Winter Sun Festival, won the title, "Miss Sunshine."

FLOORS FARMER

IRETON, Ia.—(UP)—Dick Van Whye, a farmer, was walking to a cornfield with his dog at his heels when the animal scented game. Van-Whye was knocked down by a hard blow in the face. Then he saw the dog pounce on a large jackrabbit, lying stunnned nearby. The rabbit, apparently focusing its attention on the dog, had knocked the man down.

MASS MURDER CASE SOLVED

Sight of Blood Drives Chicks To Frenzy, Poultryman Discovers.

SACRAMENTO, Cal. —(INS)— John V. Dawson, Sacramento valley poultry farmer, has solved a problem that cost him 599 white leghorn chickens last year.

Explaining that a chicken will go berserk and peck another one to death if a spot of blood is seen, Dawson revealed his method of stopping the "murders."

Individual metal "blinds," or small pieces of metal were cast out and placed on the beaks of every chicken on the farm. These prevent the chickens from looking straight ahead and thus from seeing chance spots of blood—which are very common among young pullets.

This year Dawson reported one "suicide" when a chicken pecked itself so badly it died.

MRS. BENNINGHOFF GIVES FINAL REVIEW

Women's Association Closes Series With "Mrs. Miniver" By Jan Struther; Plan Evening Program March 19.

By FRANCES E. GENSLEY

ONE of those most charming reviews presented in recent times from a Mansfield platform was "Mrs. Miniver" by Jan Struther given by Mrs. W. E. Benninghoff before an audience of several hundred at the First Congregational church. This review was the last in a series of three given this season under the auspices of the Women's association of the church.

Sketching the character and life of the author briefly, Mrs. Benninghoff conveyed to her audience the courage and gaiety of a woman, who because of the war, has been forced to seek refuge here with two of her children while her eldest son is in an evacuation camp in Wales, and her husband is serving in the air force.

The book—"Mrs. Miniver"—is not a story, but rather a series of essays about everyday occurrences in one woman's life. The series started out as a feature in the London Times, and has since been published in book form.

It is indeed a tribute to Mrs. Benninghoff's talent when we say that she wove the simple, beautifully written, but disconnected accounts into a thoroughly charming and enchanting story. By bringing the events in Mrs. Miniver's life close together, the reviewer was able to present a picture of normal activity in a normal London family in the year before the war.

The essays themselves deal with simple, every day events such as a trip to the dentist, the buying of an engagement calendar, the purchase of a new car, a week-end in the country, and other occurrences which are common to every woman. None stands out above the other, unless it is the final essay which is really a letter from Mrs. Miniver to a friend, Susan, in which she describes the feelings resulting from the first weeks of war.

In her own engaging manner, Mrs. Benninghoff presented Mrs. Miniver, making her a living, breathing creature quite like the woman next door.

The reviewer will return on March 19 for a single evening review, it was announced, and another series is being planned for next year.

Mrs. Charles Fox, president of the association, introduced Mrs. John W. Graham, who in turn presented the speaker.

Mrs. Cave Opens Home for Session

Mrs Harry Cave, 24 Blymyer avenue, opened her home yesterday to members of the Wednesday Study club for a regular session when Mrs. E. R. Hartman read a paper entitled "The Changing Map." She traced the changes in borderlines of various European countries from the World war to the present time.

There were three guests, Mrs. Ralph Stanton, Miss Ella Stine and Mrs. Amy Douglass, Cleveland, present. The table was decorated with lighted candelabra, and Mrs. Fred Herring poured. The next meeting will be a Christmas program Dec. 18 with Mrs. Alan Tappan. The committee includes Mrs. Burton Preston, Mrs. Louis Lamoreux and Mrs. Allen Bond.

Members will bring canned goods and cash contributions for the Service league to this meeting.

Woodville Club Hears Program By Atty. Ward

Thirty-nine members and two guests attended the regular meeting of the Woodville Mothers club Wednesday afternoon at the school. Singing and a devotional period were held with Mrs. M. R. Wendland in charge of the latter.

It was decided to purchase 275 boxes of Christmas candy for the children. Room prize was won by Miss Gertrude Smith. As backers of the Girl Scout Troop, No. 15, the club planned to order a flag staff for the troop.

A short talk was given by Atty. Marion D. Ward, who spoke on "Our City Government." Accordion selections were played by Glenn Wendland. Later refreshments were served by Mrs. Wendland and her committee. The next meeting will be a covered-dish dinner at the school on Jan. 8.

Miss Bein Entertains For Louise Krause

Miss Helen Bein, 586 Bigelow road, entertained last night with a dessert-bridge in honor of Miss Louise Krause. The refreshments were served at a long table covered with a white banquet cloth and decorated with flowers and candles in silver candelabra and a miniature bride and groom.

Bridge was played at three tables, with Mrs. Gilbert Dobson and Miss Mary Olive Hughes. The hostess presented the guest of honor with a gift. Miss Krause will become the bride of Charles Petersen at the Poinciana chapel at Palm Beach, Fla., on Christmas day.

HAVE PROGRAM.

Mrs. Arthur Sprecker was in charge of the meeting of the Delta Delphians at their session at the Public library Wednesday afternoon. The general topic was "Pillars of the Established and Pioneers of the Untried in Art." This was divided into three parts—"Old and New Art" by Mrs. M. C. Yerigan and Mrs. J. G. For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Saves You Much Money, and It's So Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother probably used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable, for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar in 1 cup water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This makes a full pint of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

And you'll say it's really amazing, for quick action. You can feel it take hold promptly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Nuptial Shower Given By Friend For Bride-Elect

Miss Virginia Sanderson, bride-elect of Thomas Gerhart, was entertained at a nuptial party Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Margaret Rizer, Ruth avenue. The evening was spent socially with games as the diversion. Miss Thelma Dickson won the grand prize and the other prizes, which were kitchen articles, were presented to the honoree.

Later a luncheon was served at three small tables which were decorated in a pastel color scheme. Miniature bridal bouquets and favors marked the 14 places. Two of the tables were centered with blue tapers in crystal holders tied with pink bows. The bride's table was centered with tapers in pink and blue and tied with white bows and a miniature bridal pair in front of the guest of honor's place.

The guests surprised Miss Sanderson with a shower of kitchen gifts, and the hostess gave her a gift of china.

Miss Rizer will be soloist at the Sanderson-Gerhart wedding Friday afternoon at 4:30 p m. at the Central Methodist church.

Following rehearsal tonight, a party will be given for members of the bridal party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sanderson, 120 Gibson avenue. The first in the series of post-nuptial parties will be given Monday evening by Miss Dickson, North Townview circle.

Hamburger Steak With Onion Rings

By BETSY NEWMAN

Hamburg steak and onion has a lowly sound. We don't generally serve it when we have those very swanky new friends to dinner. But chances are those same friends would thoroughly enjoy this lowly dish—probably much more than they do the more "high falutin'" dishes we set before them.

Today's Menu.

Broiled Hamburg Steak
on Onion Ring
Baked Potatoes
Hot Rolls, Muffins or Biscuits
Tomato Preserve
Cauliflower Salad
Coconut Caramel Pie Coffee

* * *

Broiled Hamburg Steak On Onion Rings.

2 cups ground lean raw beef
¼ cup ground suet
1 cup fine breadcrumbs
7 strips bacon
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
7 slices Spanish onion cut ½ inch thick
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons onion juice
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon water.

Lay slices of onion in shallow buttered baking dish, pour over them 2 tablespoons melted butter, sprinkle with salt and pepper, add water, cover closely and bake at 350 degrees F. until tender (about 30 minutes). Cook chopped parsley in 1 tablespoon butter and combine with beef, suet, crumbs and seasonings. Knead until thoroughly mixed and mold into 7 flat cakes, wrapping each cake in slice of bacon. Place each cake on onion slice in baking dish and broil under direct heat for 5 minutes on each side, basting occasionally with drippings in pan. If not convenient to broil meat cakes, panbroil them in hot skillet and serve on onion slices.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"I don't see how a question concerning Jack Bickett's whereabouts could possibly have any connection with either Marion or Carolyn," she said slowly, and then she suddenly bent forward with her elbows on her knees and her chin cupped in her palms, a familiar attitude, and one which proved to me that Lillian's brain had triumphed over her anguished maternal fears, and was enabling her to bring to her daughter's problem the rare intuition the trained logic, which are hers.

Because of my long experience of her ways, I sat silent, motionless, until she, herself, spoke.

"Of course this is all academic," she said "but this might be worth consideration. Suppose Jack Bickett, down in South America, has gotten hold of something, or is connected with something that might be of interest either to criminals here or to certain alien organizations of which you and I got. Suppose they want to get in touch with him, or get hold of information about him. They know it would be useless to move in ordinary channels, useless to sound out Katherine or you or me or Harry or Dicky even if they could get to us. But they learn that Marion and Carolyn are often at the farmhouse, and find out the close relationship Marian has to you people. What persuasion they've used to get Marion to leave college in the manner she has I cannot fathom. But in some way or other they have gotten hold of her, and through her are trying to find out Jack Bickett's whereabouts. Is that explanation plausible to you?"

"Perfectly plausible," I agreed, "but it isn't the only one."

"Of course not," she agreed. "We must not leave a single line untraced. But where can we begin with clues so tenuous and fragile as we have?"

"We can begin at the college," I said, but she protested

"That's just where we can't go," she said. "We must protect her reputation there at any cost."

"But I thought," I began bewilderedly, "that the college wrote you and said she had not been at classes for four days. They must know—"

"Ah-h," she said, "but I didn't get a chance to tell you what I told the college authorities. By the time I called you, I was in a virtual state of collapse and couldn't talk coherently about anything. The realization of what might have happened to my baby had just begun to seep in. But when I got the letter I called the dean of women with one idea, to protect Marion. I told her that I was calling for Marion who had just remembered that in her excitement over hearing of a sudden and alarming heart attack of mine, she had forgotten to sign out. Then I further embroidered the tale with a plausible account of a fall in which Marian had received a badly sprained ankle on which the doctor had forbidden her to step for some time to come. I told her that fortunately I was better, so that I could look after my child and assured her that I would keep her posted. So you see that I can't go back on that yarn, lest they suspect something wrong."

"Of course I see that," I said, "and you can't go up because you are known to the college authorities. But nobody knows me there."

"That's awfully sporting of you, Madge," she said gratefully, "but where will you begin?"

"I shall begin," I said grimly, "with Miss Carolyn Brixton."

Foundation Important To Fashion

By MME. QUI VEVE

There's wizardry in correct corsetry. What a carefully designed foundation garment will do to hide defects is surprising. We won't say that the woman with an ungainly shape can be presto-changed into a sylph-adipose cushions will not evaporate—but her bumps can be put under control and the lines of her figure improved. Even slender women are wearing foundation garments these days. Observe the mannequins at the fashion shows. No quivering flesh any place. The form-fitting evening gowns is as smooth as glass; not a ripple in it. There is trimness of hips, neatness of waist. To appear like that you have to be born with the ideal figure or you have to wear the corset that is not only confining but flattering.

It stands to reason that a trained, experienced corsetiere has plenty of tricks up her sleeve. Certainly she knows better than the cash customer what the cash customer should wear. She has a selection. Women are much too casual about selecting foundation garments. You find them picking them up on bargain counters, buying according to size. No trying on. It's silly.

Foundation garments that give ease of movement are cleverly designed. Brassieres have changed a lot of late, imparting the lifted effect, restraining but giving no evidence of restraint. They are a blessing to the plumpie who refuses to close her eyes to the good things of the table and whose most violent exercise consists of lifting the eyebrows.

A correct corset gives a woman a sense of trigness. Unbound, it is natural for the figure to slump a bit, especially when a woman is off guard, not on parade. With proper support, posture is kept in mind. The step is lighter, the pose of the head better. As for style, if you are going to have it you must begin from the skin out, and that means, a foundation garment that fits perfectly, provides support for abdominal fibers.

The garment must extend downward far enough so there will be no evidence of its termination yet must not be so long that it pushes up when a woman is seated. How high it should be cut depends upon the fleshy formation above the waistline and below the bust. There are special designs for women who carry a spare tire on that part of the body, poor dears.

A few bones are used, especially in garments made for the heavies.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

USING SUBTRACTION

WHEN YOU get the exact count of one opponent's suit, subtraction will tell you how many cards of it his partner holds. It also will tell you how many cards he has in the other suits. Exact count of a second suit then lets you know how many he has all told in the remaining two suits. Having reckoned that, you may estimate the probable division of those two. Some bid or play of his, instead of some other move, may furnish the clue to the way they are divided, and thus point out how you may play the hand successfully.

West felt that he had two probable trump tricks, but did not wish to jeopardize one of them by doubling and thus telling South about the danger. Instead, he merely passed and led the club 4. If South had been an ordinary player, his contract would have been defeated beyond peradventure of a doubt. But this was a real card reader on the job.

After winning the first trick with the club A South led the spade 4 to the A, disclosing West's holding. Counting the club 4 as a fourth-best, he decided to probe further by laying down the diamond A. When West played the 10 there, he counted that as being from a doubleton. With eight cards in the black suits, West had five in the red ones. But if the diamond had been singleton, the hearts would have been four in length, and probably would have been led instead of the minor clubs. So West must have had two diamonds, hence three hearts.

Following that, South scored the heart Q and club J, then proceeded to shorten his trumps by ruffing the diamond 8 with the spade 3. A heart to the K was followed by the heart 6 ruffed by the spade 6. The club K and Q were taken, leaving South just three trumps, the K-10-8. He led the 8 to West, who won it but had to pitch back into the tenace, giving South his contract.

"For what?" Inquired the surprised Thompson.

"About five years ago I stole some of your chickens," the visitor replied. "I have changed my way of living after being converted at a revival meeting and must make restitution. I haven't any money tonight but will send it to you as soon as I can."

Thompson has just received a check for $3.

TIMES IGNORED BY APOTHECARY

He Holds That Soda-Jerkers, Curb Hops Not a Necessity In Drug Stores.

(By United Press)

NEW ORLEANS —Monsieur Albert, the apothecary, maintains that one still can manage a drug store adequately with just a mortar and pestle, funnels, scales and flasks.

Such apparatus as soda fountains, juice squeezers, electric mixers and promotional signs are entirely unnecessary to the old French apothecary whose small shop is nestled in the business district on busy Canal street.

Instead of vitamin pellets, sundaes, baby carriages and swimming suits, M. Albert Javelet offers his patrons his own compounds. To his visitors he points out his shelves of compounds and chemicals and his back workroom.

"With these, I can cure you of anything, mon ami almost," M. Albert assures a prospective customer from beneath his somewhat ragged mustache.

Javelet knows and admits that his little shop is a last stand against the progress that has brought soda-jerkers, curb-hops and staple compounds into the drug stores of his competitors.

"It isn't the same today as it was when I began my apprenticeship to an apothecary in 1878," the little druggist admits. "Look at all my beautiful books. From France I brought some of them. From England others came. And some are from America. But now I never use them. Doctors prescribe only simple prescriptions now."

M. Albert's store looks as it did when he opened it more than 35 years ago. The floor is covered with sawdust. In the center of the room is a little iron stove, surrounded by three chairs for guests or customers. In the back is the workshop.

The druggist has made some little concessions, it is true. He now carries a small stock of tablets and candy for the school children.

But the shop will never be allowed to veer so far from its course as to offer ice cream and cold drinks, Albert declares.

SULKY DRIVER.

VERMILLION, S. D. —(UP)— When Prof. Neil G. Boardman of the University of South Dakota isn't pursuing his vocation as a violin teacher or orchestra concertmaster he can be found following his avocation of driving his harness horses at race tracks. Equally familiar with violin bow and sulky harness, Boardman makes his use of each pay. Last summer he cleared $1,000.

Housing Shortage Delays Service for Guard Units

ONLY 16,000 DRAFTEES IN UNIFORM NOW

Original Plans For Induction of 90,000 By Dec. 2 Fall Far Short.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The housing bottleneck, which admittedly has impeded the defense program from the start, will cause further delay in calling up some of the national guard divisions originally scheduled to see service next month, war department sources disclosed today.

Defense officials are bound by law not to induct men into service until "adequate" housing facilities are available. This provision has been adhered to, but adherence has caused substantial delays all along the line.

Secretary of War Stimson originally announced that 90,000 draftees would be in uniform by Dec. 2. Latest figures disclose that so far only about 16,000 have been inducted with only 3,000 more, all from the south, now scheduled to be called before the end of the year.

It has been four months since congress authorized calling the national guard into active service, but so far only half the guard, about 120,000 men, are actually in uniform.

While no one would make any official announcement, it was admitted privately that this general slow-up has been due to the fact that construction of housing facilities is, in almost every case, taking longer than anticipated.

Of the 18 regular guard divisions, nine are now in service—four having been called in September, three in October, and two last month. The 35th division from Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri, was scheduled to be called Nov. 25, but later was postponed to Dec. 23 "or as fast as facilities become available" at Camp Robinson, Ark.

The other eight divisions are now slated to see service between Jan. 3 and Jan. 19 but authorities said that some of them might not go in until "sometime later, depending on housing facilities."

The four national guard cavalry divisions, which are to be reorganized into horse-mechanized regiments, also are awaiting call and no date for their induction has yet been set.

In addition, no effort has been made to bring the infantry divisions up to war strength of around 18,000 from their present force of about 10,000 each. This is to be done later with draftees "as facilities become available." Thus active guardsmen in regular divisions now total some 90,000, with 30,000 others in smaller units.

Ten Overcome In Cleveland Hotel Fire Early Today

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— Ten persons were overcome by smoke and 36 others ousted early today when an $18,000 fire swept the downtown Lion hotel and for a time threatened the adjacent Hollenden, one of the city's biggest hotels.

All persons overcome by smoke were quickly revived after being led out by firemen and police. The three-alarm blaze, the origin of which was undetermined, brought out 16 fire companies, which fought the blaze for five hours.

Albert Monti, 33, bartender at Stone's Grill on the ground floor of the hotel building, said he discovered the fire pouring from a ventilator in the kitchen of the grill. He said he had just lighted a match and thought a spark from it ignited gas in the vent.

The residents of the hotel were roused by the night clerk, Charles Astikian, 25, son of the owner. Along with Police Lieut. James McArthur, who was cruising past and saw smoke, they rushed through the three floors of the building shouting the alarm.

Up and Down the Street

Friends of Dave Boals, jr., who was among the volunteers enlisted in the army a week ago, were laughing today over his present predicament. Before he left, Boals told acquaintances that at least he would not have to put up with an Ohio winter this year, when they sent him to Mississippi for training. However, according to word received by a friend yesterday, Boals has been assigned to a ski unit and will be sent to train in the subzero temperatures of Minnesota or Michigan. Thermometer readings of 20 below zero are common in those areas.

Although they don't propose to make a practice of favoring bridegrooms, city draft officials today had granted an extension of time for filling his questionnaire to one Mansfield groom so he can complete his wedding trip. The groom is Harold J. Foss, 204 South Franklin avenue, who was married the day before his questionnaire arrived. The questionnaires ordinarily must be returned in five days, but Foss got a five-day extension. His marriage automatically drops him out of the A-1 classification on his draft board's records.

Perhaps the stay-at-homes didn't realize just how windy it was down town yesterday. Frank Poling was telling a woman from Lexington that the wind almost blew him off the street when she informed him that it actually had blown two buttons off her coat. She said she was walking on Park avenue west and that as she turned the corner north at the Richland Trust building, a terrific gust of wind swooped under her coat and pulled it so hard that two buttons flew off, and nearly took the coat with it.

Incidents associated with the laggardly re-paving of West Fourth street are not to be lost to posterity, if this can be avoided by H. Scott Brown, cartoonist. From the vantage point of his dad's store, corner Fourth and Helen, Scott has daily observed the slow-paced "progress" and sketched his impressions. The result is a 24-page brochure which was today placed in the hands of Mayor Locke and Service Director Crafton, for preservation in municipal archives.

STUDY CAUSE OF MINE BLAST

Inspectors Prepare To Enter Explosion-Wrecked Nelms Mine at Cadiz.

(By Associated Press)

CADIZ—Federal and state mine inspectors prepared to enter the blast-torn Nelms mine today to ascertain the cause of last Friday's explosion which killed 31 miners.

Miners previously blamed gas for the blast, although officials of the Ohio and Pennsylvania Coal Co., operators of the mine, said they could not determine its cause.

Rescue crews brought to the surface yesterday the last body, that of Robert Dinger, a driller.

Meanwhile, the lack of a quorum in Washington prevented action by the house mines committee on a bill to require annual federal inspection of all coal mines.

The six members who answered Chairman Smith's (D-W. Va.) call to discuss the Neely-Keller bill were: Moser (D-Penn.), Secrest (D-Ohio), Cravens (D-Ark.), Beckwith (D-Tex.), Landis (R-Ind.), and Fenton (R-Penn.)

Smith said that another attempt would be made to get the committee together before congress adjourns for the Christmas holidays.

The bill, backed by the United Mine Workers of America, passed the senate last January but met opposition in the house from the national coal association, individual coal operators, and officials of coal producing states.

The UMWA argued that the bill would reduce the number of accidents in mines but the coal operators contended it would duplicate the work of state department of mines.

ACTOR, KNOWN IN CITY, DEAD

C. Henry Gordon Was Brother-in-Law of Mansfield Man.

C. Henry Gordon, 56, a character actor in Hollywood, and a brother-in-law of M. J. Fink, 89 Dawson avenue, who died Tuesday will be buried in the film capital tomorrow.

Gordon, who made a visit to Mansfield four years ago, had been ill for the past two weeks, and had been confined to a hospital.

He played parts in recent pictures, "The Return of The Cisco Kid," and "Trapped in the Sky." He portrayed the part of a general in "Kit Carson," which showed recently at the Madison theater.

NORFOLK, Va. —(AP)— Literally, Hazard Gibbs, 42-year-old seaman of East Nassau, N. Y., found hazards of the land greater than those of the sea.

ANN SHERIDAN CLAIMS WARNERS TRY TO STARVE HER iNTO FILM

(By United Press)

HOLLYWOOD—Ann Sheridan, the Oomph girl, accused the Warner Brothers today of trying to starve her into becoming a movie actress again.

"But they don't know the Sheridan," the Sheridan said. "I've been saving my money for five years—and I can sit just as tight as they can."

The red-headed Miss S., whose crimson pajamas revealed the proper curves in the proper places, didn't look hungry, even though she hasn't collected a pay check for four months—and may not get another one for five years.

The Warners suspended her from the payroll last August because she refused to exude oomph from the screen any longer for a mere $600 a week. She demanded $2,000. The Warners offered $1,000. Unless there is a compromise at around $1,500 Annie seems to be stymied by a brace of legal clauses.

"They've got me under a contract with five more years to go, and if I don't work for them, I can't work for anybody," she said. "But if they're trying to starve me into submission, they've got another think coming."

BLAMES WHISKY

Funeral Director Kills His Brother-in-Law.

CALDWELL — (U.P.) — Clyde C. Wheeler, middle-aged funeral director, sat soberly in jail today contemplating the aftermath of "a day of drinking whisky" during which authorities said he shot his brother-in-law to death.

Wheeler was alleged to have slain Okey Leasure, 33, farmer, his brother-in-law, with a 12-guage shotgun in Wheeler's home last night in the presense of Wheeler's wife and Jess McVay, a boarder.

Mrs. Wheeler, who blamed jealousy and drinking for the act, told officers her husband had threatened to kill her "so often that I didn't pay much attention" to him when he entered the house with the gun.

ILLNESS FATAL TO 5-YEAR-OLD

Cecelia Viola Shoup Succumbs After Brief Illness.

Cecelia Viola Shoup, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Shoup of Sixth avenue, died at the home Wednesday after a brief illness.

Born in Butler, Oct. 2, 1935, she is survived by her parents; a brother, Harold at home, and her grandfathers, Charles Shoup of Mansfield, and Homer Darling of Bellville.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday in charge of Jehovah's Witnesses. Burial will be in Windsor cemetery.

ONCE DEFEATED PROJECT AGAIN BECOMES ISSUE

President Points To Added Defense Production Possibilities.

(By Associated Press)

DETROIT—President Roosevelt announced today he would ask congress, convening in January, to approve a treaty with Canada providing for completion of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project "on which so much of our national safety and welfare depend."

The president's announcement, presaging another battle in congress over the long-debated project (defeated in 1934) was made by A. A. Berle, jr., assistant secretary of state, in an address before the Great Lakes Seaway and Power conference.

President Roosevelt, in a message to the conference read by Berle, emphasized that the St. Lawrence project would provide millions in new horsepower urgently needed to speed up defense production, and create a safe haven and waterway for construction of ships to replace tonnage sunk in the war.

"The opposition which defeated the St. Lawrence treaty in 1934," Mr. Roosevelt said, "was a mistaken opposition, based on failure to appraise the full needs of their country in the world situation which was even then developing.

"I said then that 'an opportunity is presented to complete a seaway comparable in economic value to the Panama Canal,' a seaway to which the public development of St. Lawrence power is inseparably linked.'

"It was then an opportunity. It is now a vital necessity."

A commission, named by the United States and Canadian governments, now is making necessary preliminary surveys for the proposed project, and discussions leading toward a treaty covering the project's construction are under way between the two governments.

Emphasizing the need of the St. Lawrence project for defense, President Roosevelt declared:

"The United States needs this great landlocked sea as a secure haven in which it will always be able to build ships and more ships in order to protect our trade and our shores.

"The United States needs, tremendously needs, the power project which will form a link in the seaway to produce aluminum and more aluminum for the airplane program which will assure command of the air."

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Broadway Is a Santa Claus.

I THINK it is due chiefly to donations from Broadway that Hollywood's Christmas stocking this year is stuffed with more than Marlene Dietrich's calves.

In the orange juice belt west of the Rockies they will be reluctant to admit it, but the proof is written on miles of their home-grown celluloid and it seems to me Times Square is entitled to say "You're welcome," even if nobody has said "Thanks."

For the street which rabid Californians are inclined to refer to as dead as a show business center has sent the flicker industry its liveliest discoveries of the year.

At the risk of seeming to point with pride, I should like to name a few of them.

The first gent who comes to mind is one Preston Sturges, who leaped from the insignificant status of former Broadway playwright to the magnificent post of Hollywood Wonder Boy No. 1 when a "little picture" which he had been given his head on, was sneak-previewed in a theater a distance away from the Kleig-lit wisies.

He is Hollywood's now, no doubt about it; he is bound to Wilshire Boulevard and the Sunset strip hand and foot, contract and option—but he wouldn't have been if Broadway hadn't seen him first, or vice versa.

It is not an interminable length of time since Mr. Sturges was a working newspaperman around Manhattan, one of those fellows in brown snap-brim felt hats who carry pencils and write about fires, homicides, and visiting heroines from Hollywood.

Then he wrote a play called "Strictly Dishonorable," in which a red-headed heroine changed into pajamas on the stage, and he became a successful author.

He was ripe for Hollywood plucking then, and they plucked him. But he was buried until Paramount gave him special dispensation to write, direct and produce "The Great McGinty," one of the clicks of the year.

Now Preston is being rubbed down with scented ointments by the biggest of the Hollywood biggies, he is being wined and lunched and feted with parties at which the old-fashioneds are served in solid gold glasses.

But don't forget, boys, he belonged to Broadway first.

There is also roaming through the Hollywoodlands a small girl named Martha Scott, who has been referred to by some of the more passionate critics as "another Helen Hayes." She is a Hollywood flash now, a heroine of the fan magazines and prey of the autograph hounds around the door of the Brown Derby.

A couple of seasons ago, she was a Jed Harris "find" in "Our Town," which even the most unbiased would be forced to call a production of the Broadway theatrical year. Once her name was a signal for applause and rave notices, the cinema beckoned—and Martha trekked West.

But she came back fast. The moguls had decided that her forehead was too high for a motion picture actress, and nothing could be done with her face—so Martha went back to the comparative anonymity of the radio microphone until someone thought of bangs in connection with her face and she was swiftly recalled to the Kleig lights.

She was a star in her first film, "Our Town," and the village which had kidnapped her from Broadway awarded her its pet adjectives, "sensational."

Turning out tunes for the celluloid sound tracks is a lad named Jimmy Van Heusen, at the mention of whose name hardened earbenders like Bing Crosby fall prone and hit their heads three times on the ground. His score for the new Jack Benny-Fred Allen picture was so good that producers from Culver City to the Valley began luring him with honey-coated contracts. He is a new "discovery" in Hollywood.

But around Manhattan, the swing joints know him well. The bands that sing the company of the town have played his tunes at midnight for the dancing crowds, the juke boxes in the little bars and the orchestra on the Hit Parade have blared his melodies. "Imagination, It's Funny" . . . "So Help Me" . . . "Darn That Dream". He's Hollywood's fair-haired kid now.

But Tin Pan Alley saw him first.

Hollywood did stake the first claim on Betty Grable, but it pulled up stakes. Perhaps the moguls should be forgiven for never having been able to see past her knees, but the fact remains that her career consisted chiefly of several thousand still photographs in the Saturday photogravure section of newspapers and the "art" pages of movie magazines until Betty took a train East and drew a role in "DuBarry Was a Lady."

In this musical comedy her legs were at one point partially concealed beneath a hoop skirt, and during this unusual interval it developed that Betty had not only legs but a face, a pleasant voice, an ability to dance, and a flare for comedy.

Hollywood couldn't wait to get her back.

Now she gets billing equal to that of Alice Faye and other "stars." Somehow, she looks different to the cinema folk now that she's wearing Broadway's stamp of approval.

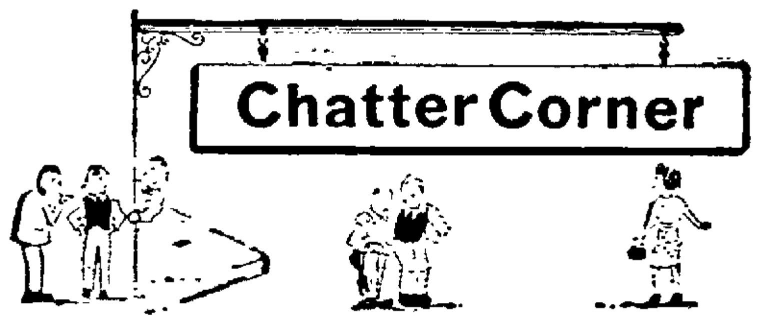
Also imported from Broadway were Elia Kazan, who all but stole a film from Jimmy Cagney; Garson Kanin, whose directing put him in the Wonder Boy League; Eddie Bracken, who learned how to be funny on Broadway; Betty Field, the ingenue-of-the-year, Oscar Levant, and Desi Arnaz.

There are, of course, others. But I am reluctant to have the red-and-green cheer of the holiday season made redder by Hollywood's blushes.

Chatter Corner



(Just jottings about people you know, as they're seen here and there about town.)

Jule Reese surprised by friends on her birthday . . . John West, looking very dressed-up, defying the wintry winds on South Main street . . . Mrs. Roy Varney doing Christmas shopping in the morning hours . . . Martin Bracker talking to friends on a busy corner . . . Bob and Elsie Tracht of Gabon, in town to visit with friends . . . Rabbi Myron M. Jacobs, pausing in a West Fourth street beanery for a quick lunch and taking time to talk of his pet aversion, demagogic opportunists . . . Post mortems all over town on the Community play, most of them enthusiastic.

Teacher Bill Edwards checking wraps for patrons of the Bromfield play at John Simpson junior high school . . . Prosecutor-Elect Harold T. Lutz still being kidded about his campaign slogan: "The first name is Harold."

* * *

Glimpsed listening to the book review given by Mrs. W. E. Renninghoff . . . Mrs. E. N. Cooper, Mrs. Harvey Lanehart . . . Lottie Calene, Karl Goettl running about a Marion avenue neighborhood trying to find buckets of water to throw on his automobile engine which suddenly caught fire last night . . . Paul Shumaker back from Columbus, where he went to hear Alec Templeton, the blind English pianist.

Gordon Schwan, parks association president getting ready for a two-month vacation in Florida. . . . Ray W. Vaughn, park commissioner wearing a big badge identifying him with the electrical sales of O. P. S. . . . Dick "Honeyboy" Jones running at least a mile every morning to get into shape for his professional fight in Mansfield New Year day. . . . Joe Lesch working hard making up a schedule for the City Class A basketball league. Carolyn Wolf laughing over the quip of a new male acquaintance who after being introduced to her said, "You can throw me to the 'wolves' anytime now" . . . Mrs. Harvey Bailey and Mrs. Ruhland Isaly waiting for their husbands backstage at John Simpson auditorium. . . . Mrs. H. G. Balyeat stifling a series of luxurious yawns.

TYGER basketball fans will watch the Mansfield high quintet function under different conditions during the 1940-41 season, providing Coach Vern Hoffman uses the plan he has in mind.

Handicapped by lack of height this year, Hoffman is planning on a fast-breaking attack and accurate shooting to offset the disadvantage. And knowing how hard it is on five athletes to keep up a fast pace Hoffman has assembled two quintets.

On one club, which is smaller, will be the two veterans—Jack Shiplet and Harry Phillips—and it will start every game. As soon as the team tires Hoffman will insert his other five players

The second combine, however, is slower, but can control rebounds better. Making up the No 1 squad are Shiplet and Gene Emmer, guards; Dick Burkholder and Phillips, forwards and Bruce McGinty, center.

Joe Romano and Earl Packer, guards; Martin Henke and Bob Winbigler, forwards and Joe Keefer, center, are the lads holding down berths on the second five.

Whether this combination will work will be discovered at Columbus Friday night when the Tygers meet South high The Tygers return to meet Findlay on the Senior high hardwood Saturday night.

If the plan works at least 10 Tygers will see action in all of the contests on the 19-game schedule.

At least 36 rounds of boxing is scheduled for the first pro card to be staged here in more than two years.

Loudonville high has lost only one member of its 1939-40 co-championship club . . . He is Bill Cain . . . The Red Birds open their season by invading Canton to face the Timken Tech high team Friday night.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

SALT LAKE CITY—(UP)—Notes by a man who has just driven 750 miles without letting a car pass him, but who was fool enough to pass two police cars.

* * *

If I don't get a press box ticket for the Notre Dame-Southern California game when I arrive in Los Angeles, I'll surely have enough speed tickets to get me into the best jail so I can listen to the game over the radio.

If I am ever forced by admiring friends to run for public office it will be solely on a platform that demands all police cars be painted yellow for daytime, luminous for night time and be equipped with loudspeakers which constantly warn: "Cheese it, the cops!" But enough of law and order, let's take this next curve on two wheels and get on to a few sports items

Tip to Clark Shaughnessy and his Stanford team. There is one play you need not build a defense against in preparing for Nebraska in the Rose Bowl That is the fake placement kick

Biff Jones Nebraska coach, got enough of that when he was coaching Louisiana State university and the late Huey Long was his self-appointed assistant. The fake placement kick was the one play Huey understood and he loved it—not only loved it, but demanded that Biff use it two or three times a game.

Biff didn't follow orders but he go so sick of hearing about it that he wouldn't use it, even to win a bowl game. The next time you see Biff ask him to tell you how the delta dictator, flanked by two bodyguards, came in the L S U dressing room between the halves of a game and demanded to talk to the team

He didn't get to talk, but he got Biff's resignation—and pronto

Speaking of bowl games I sorta envy those boys who'll draw the assignment to cover the Cotton Bowl in Dallas I came from a state where hospitality is supposed to grow on trees but the city of Dallas makes all other hospitality seem like a punch on the nose

When you start naming the outstanding sports performers of 1940 how are you going to keep the name of Ace Parker from leading the list? He not only fitted himself into a new system under a new coach with the Brooklyn Dodgers but he proved himself the outstanding pro football player of the year.

And he did it with a fractured ankle! The two games I saw him play he was equipped with a steel brace that a convict trying to get home for Christmas couldn't have walked with

Word has reached us way out here that the Boston Red Sox have sold two pitchers—Denny Galehouse and Fritz Ostermueller—and we all agree (and by "we" I mean myself and three cowpunchers I talked to just outside of Laramie Wyo, yesterday) that Boston hasn't any right to sell a pitcher. "Give them Red Sox a few more pitchers," one cowpuncher said just before he headed a posse into a movie for a new Gene Autry picture, "and they'd lasso and brand everything in the American."

I climbed into Old Paint—and when I say old paint, I mean it —and headed down highway 30.

* * *

The Notre Dame team may justify my season-long confidence in it on Saturday by beating a weak Southern California club that has 12 men in the hospital with flu If the Irish do win I'll do my best not to point at my critics and cry, "I told you so."

Resigns Post

Although he coached the Tulsa university team to the championship of the Missouri Valley conference, Chet Benefiel has resigned as head coach of the Golden Hurricanes. Criticism of the athletic program at Tulsa and criticism of the loss to Arkansas on Thanksgiving day is believed to have prompted Benefiel to resign his job.

Dodgers Get Card Catcher

Dodgers Give Players and an Estimated $70,000 for Mickey Owen at Meeting.

ATLANTA—(AP)—The man with the money bags is in town, and if pennants can be purchased, Brooklyn's daffy Dodgers will be in the world series next fall.

Larry MacPhail, the gent who likes to talk in six figures has this 39th convention of the minor leagues in a Santa Claus mood. And money talks.

Yesterday the Dodgers tossed Catcher Gus Mancuso, a rookie pitcher and a wad of cash estimated at from $65,000 to $75,000 on the line in exchange for the St. Louis Cardinals' young catcher, Mickey Owen.

* * *

Today the man with pennant fever was in a huddle with the Pittsburgh Pirates, dickering for Outfielder Debs Garms

The minors headed into the second day of their convention, but the majors still held baseball's attention with lineup-juggling sales and trades.

To the Cincinnati Reds' swap of Shortstop Billy Myers to the Chicago Cubs for Outfielder Jim Gleeson, Shortstop Bobby Mattick and an undesignated player was added word of two other negotiations.

The Boston Red Sox were reported unofficially near agreement on a straight trade which would send veteran Outfielder Roger Cramer to the Chicago White Sox in return for Outfielder Mike Kreevich

Manager Bill McKechnie of Cincinnati was believed dickering for another shortstop to understudy Eddie Joost, since Mattick has been an erratic infielder.

For the minors, speculation turned to what baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M Landis will have to say tonight when he makes "a few observations' at the association's annual banquet The convention concludes tomorrow.

ANN ARBOR, Mich—(INS)—In Ann Arbor briefly after a swing through the radio and lecture circuit Tom Harmon the University of Michigan's famed All-American halfback, said today he has received two movie offers. Both Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Warner Brothers have offered him contracts, he said

Board Rules On Harmon

Discusses Status of Players Who Will Play With Star.

DENVER—(AP)—A possibility that competing with or against Michigan's Tom Harmon in the east-west charity game Jan. 1 might imperil a football player's future amateur status was posed today as delegates gathered for the national amateur athletic union's convention

The question hinges upon money paid the stellar halfback for appearing on a New York radio program last week. He was the first player signed for the east-west contest.

* * *

Daniel J Ferris, A A U secretary said the organization's board of governors, should the issue reach it, "almost certainly" would class Harmon as a professional for taking the radio fee.

"Our feeling I think would be that the program capitalized on his sports fame," Ferris added.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn—(AP)—Wesleyan college authorities, moving swiftly to straighten out their athletic program, today appointed Norman Daniels as head baseball coach and assistant professor of physical education.

Meantime the fellow with the white whiskers—Uncle Sam to you—sat a-snickering, because he's holding the strings The majority of the 250 football playing seniors in the survey are eligible for immediate futures with the army and navy, in addition to the seniors from West Point and Annapolis

Altogether, 40 different professions, pleasures jobs or what have you were listed Most either want to coach or play pro football Some 63 chose the coaching line, among them such top-flight performers as George Franck Minnestota's line mauler Paul Severin, North Carolina's fine end; his teammate, Jim (Sweet(Lalanne; Tony Ruffa Duke's sure-toed place kicker, and Bill Jennings, of Oklahoma.

Some 31 others are willing to take a crack at the "play-for-pay" game, although several of them, fellows like Jarring Jawn Kimbrough, the Texas Aggies' great ball-carrier, and his teammates Marshall Robnett and Jim Thomason, pointed out they want to see first just what they could expect in the way of ready cash If the offers aren't satisfactory, they'll hook up with the army.

Then theres Carl Benson at Southern California. He may decide to coach but he is a licensed plumber at Laguna Beach, Calif., and may go in with his father there

And what about Terrific Tommy Harmon, Michigan's one-man tank corps Tommy had announced his intention of getting into radio announcing. Now it comes out he might even be inclined to give the movies a whirl, provided they could do something about fixing up his nose so that he could make a passable "great profile"

Two others—Ed Frutig, Michigan's crack end, and Don Pierre of Kansas—apparently decided, after re-reading their press clippings, that maybe sports-writing isn't so bad

Since Ted Lyons did it, five seniors have the idea they can step right off the campus into professional baseball, too

Among these, Pitchin' Paul Christman of Missouri, Pennsylvania's Francis Xavier Reagan, the east's No. 1 back, and Colorado's Johnny Pudlik already have been assured tryouts.

* * *

Bill Neff of Purdue probably remembered another Indianan who progressed to a nomination as the Republican candidate for the presidency of the United States He's going into "utilities" And Merle Osborne of Iowa State gives you his ambition—it's "bus transportation."

Coach Predicts 'Tip-Off' Will Return for Cage Tilts

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— Steadily mounting protests from some of the nation's leading college basketball coaches may soon force return of the old "tip-off" system of putting the ball in play, veteran Penn Coach Lon W. Jourdet predicted today.

* * *

Busy readying his 1941 Quaker five for its bicentennial schedule, Jourdet announced his intention of continuing a campaign against present court rules, especially the "throw-in" after field goals.

"I think protests against the tip-off elimination will reach a climax this year," asserted Jourdet, now in his 17th season at Penn, "because experience has now fully borne out my objections to the 'throw-in' rule.

"The 'throw-in' has speeded up the game, to be sure," admitted the Penn coach, "but it has also imposed excessive physical strain on the players. Furthermore, it penalizes short-statured teams which stand little chance of retrieving a ball thrown in to taller opponents"

Jourdet should know what he's talking about, because he's coached Red and Blue teams to eastern intercollegiate league titles seven times, and has become known as the "maker of champions."

In his opinion, a player must have the following qualifications to make a good courtman:

* * *

1—Ability to handle the ball; 2—Speed and stamina; 3—The capacity to work with others, and 4—Basketball instinct or the astuteness to take advantage of the breaks

INJURED GOALIE WORKS OUT WITH CLEVELANDERS

CLEVELAND —(INS)— With an injured leg tightly taped, Goalie Moe Roberts of the Cleveland Barons planned ice workouts today and tomorrow to determine whether he can return to the hockey wars.

Roberts strained a tendon last month and has been out of action since. The little goalie hoped to be in shape for next Saturday's game with Springfield in Cleveland, but Alfie Moore, the American league's spare goal tender, will be in the Baron nets if Moe is not ready.

HOME BUILDING IN MANSFIELD SETS NEW MARK

242 New Dwellings Built So Far This Year; State Also Shows Increase.

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of articles on an Associated Press Cross-Section survey as to how the current business upswing and national defense orders have affected Ohio business and labor.

By JOHN H. COLBURN

Mansfield residential building construction today is on a second honeymoon reminiscent of the boom period of 1929.

The number of new residences under construction this year show a decided increase over any previous record and residential valuations have skyrocketed to the highest in the city's history.

A total of 242 new homes have been started so far this year, the $1,300,000 expenditure surpassing all previous 10-month totals.

Bolstered by $100,000,000 in additional income this year due to a steady, mounting wave of business prosperity, Ohioans all over the state are investing in real estate, an Associated Press survey disclosed.

Reports from key Ohio communities disclosed residential construction enjoying its best yer since the depression as industry poured about $150,000,000 into new factories and plants improvements.

"There is every indication that we are in the midst of a period of an active and growing demand for housing," said James V. Davidson, president of the Ohio Savings and Loan league.

"The war abroad has laid further emphasis to the value and privilege of home ownership in this country, for a home is an investment that has a utilitarian use in dollars, as well as being a tangible asset, whose market value will not undergo any violent shrinkage as a result of any adverse news from abroad in the future."

Cleveland figures vividly portrayed a building picture which prevailed throughout most of Ohio. There had been more homes built in that metropolitan area in the first nine months this year than were constructed during the same period in 1938 and 1939 combined.

Here are Cleveland's Jan. 1 to Oct. 1 figures: 1940—3,532 homes costing $22,000,000; 1939—2,072 costing $13,236,000; 1938—1,239 costing $8,823,000.

Lorain's construction activity this year failed only in two months to eclipse previous 1929 high marks and indications were that 1940 would end with a 15 per cent residential building increase over 1929 figures.

Lorain was typical of medium-sized industrial cities and in Van Wert and Marion, representative of cities in rural areas, home building was up 10-15 per cent over 1939.

During the first 10 months in greater Columbus new home building amounted to $14,311,692 compared with $10,701,105; for the same period in Youngstown it was $1,044,800 to $578,710; and in Warren building permits from Jan. 1-Nov. 1 were 35.6 per cent ahead of all those issued in 1939.

Huge, new housing projects now are being considered for Columbus and Cincinnati in connection with establishment of a new warplane manufacturing plant in Columbus and an airplane motor plant in Cincinnati.

Both factories will go into operation within the next year, employing 12,000 to 15,000 each.

Tomorrow: What's the Employment Situation?

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? White bread, meat, potatoes? It's little wonder you're constipated. You probably don't eat enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It's a kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a movement. If this is your trouble, may we suggest a crunchy toasted cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—for breakfast. All-Bran is a natural food, not a medicine—but it's particularly rich in "bulk." Being so, it can help you not only to get regular but to keep regular. Eat All-Bran regularly, and drink plenty of water. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Case Of $1 Fine For Parking Heads For Supreme Court

CLEVELAND—(AP)—A $1 parking case is headed for Ohio's supreme court.

It's the cause celebre of a Cleveland attorney. When police find an automobile violating parking ordinances, the attorney contends, they must prove before ticketing it that the owner of the car placed it there.

The attorney is Philip Schoenberg. Mrs. Schoenberg was fined $1 in municipal court despite her husband's contention that police hadn't proved she was responsible for a parking violation.

The court of appeals upheld the decision yesterday. Schoenberg announced he would appeal to the supreme court.

PROUD VILLAGE AVOIDS RELIEF FOR 26TH YEAR

Luxemburg, Wis., Keeps Close Check on Job Status of Its Citizens.

(By United Press)

LUXEMBURG, WIS.—Inquire in communities of all sizes and descriptions what has been the outstanding municipal problem during the last 10 years, and the nearly universal answer will be—relief.

But for this community of 468 population, in most respects a typical American village, public assistance has constituted no problem at all. Luxemburg hasn't had a relief case for 26 years.

The explanation of that record, according to Charles Peters, village president, lies in the cooperation and neighborliness of Luxemburg residents and in the vigilance and energy of its public officials. A Luxemburg man who appears to be heading for relief rolls always can count on help in finding a new job, Peters says. He cites an example:

Committee on Job Hunt.

"Recently a neighboring township presented us with a bill for relief for a Luxemburg resident who was living in that township at the time. Instead of paying the claim, the village board appointed a committee who visited the individual. They took him on a tour of the neighborhood and found him a job that same day. There were no further claims for aid in that case, and the man soon paid the original claim from his own earnings."

Persons suspected of being potential chronic relief clients or "floaters" have difficulty in renting lodgings here. Peters' advice in such cases generally is accepted.

"The other day," he recalled, "a woman told me she had a chance to rent a flat to a family planning to move to the village. It happened I knew the family to be the 'floater' type. On my advice, the woman refused to rent her flat. Later I learned that the family in question was receiving relief in a nearby township."

Luxemburg's avoid-relief policy has encountered one drawback.

WPA Project Lost.

"We have applied for a WPA crew to build a fire cistern," Peters explains, "and the state director tells us that it is virtually impossible to set up a project without having labor available. Now, how can we get certified WPA labor without a relief case?"

In addition to its relief record, Luxemburg boasts of being one of the state's few municipalities without a penny of long-term indebtedness. It has no outstanding bonds. And only for an occasional emergency expenditure does the village board obtain short-term credit.

The village board practices a policy of careful deliberation. Seldom is an important action taken without unanimous approval. If a minority opposes a proposal, final action is delayed until all members have had ample time to consider the problems involved.

"All this would be impossible," said Peters, "without the help and real cooperation of the officials and people. Anyone on the board—Leo and Charles Seidl, Emil Hoppe, Pete Monard, Louis Rueckl, Ed Jacques—is ready to perform an assigned task at any time. The same spirit motivates village Clerk Clem Rass and Doc Happel, our village treasurer. They have only one interest—the welfare of Luxemburg."

CLIMBERS SIGN.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Voluntary registration of mountain climbers with National Park Rangers has been recommended by Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes in an attempt to save the lives of amateur climbers who attempt foolhardy ascents.

DETECTS NAILS

Elaborate Device Saves Saws Usual Wear and Tear.

BOSTON—(INS)—Nails, nemesis of saws, will be found out and removed if the type X metal locator, a device based on a radio unit, fulfills hopes of officials of the Northeastern Timber Salvage administration.

The type X metal locator, a detector of metals, is described by the officials as an "oscillator and amplifier functioning as a tone source, a delicately balanced bridge circuit, one arm of which is the exploring loop, and a tuned amplifier which gives sufficient sensitivity to detect the small unbalances in the bridge produced by metal objects in the field of the exploring coil."

As the equipment passes over a piece of metal it sets up a howl. The larger the piece of metal—the louder the howl.

AID TO SAVE FORT SOUGHT

RALEIGH, N. C.—(U.P.)—State historians have asked the National Park Service for aid in preventing historic Fort Fisher, on the North Carolina coast from being undermined by lapping waves.

Dr. C. C. Crittenden, secretary of the State Historical commission, and Joseph H. Pratt, of Chapel Hill, president of the North Caroline Society for the Preservation of Antiquities, said sand erosion has brought the tide up to the old fort's log-and-sand embankment.

The fortress, used by the Confederates during the Civil war, is 20 miles below Wilmington, N. C., near the South Carolina line.

CRACK-SHOT READY AGAIN

Colored Reserve Officer Who Won Citations In Cuba Willing to Serve.

BILLINGS, Mont. —(UP)— If the call comes again, Capt. Horace W. Bivins will go back into army life, but the fine enthusiasm and skill that won him 32 citations as a young man has faded a little at his present age, 74.

The colored reserve officer, a veteran of the two Cuban campaigns, three Philippine campaigns and the World War, now engages in the peaceful occupation of truck-gardening and raises sweet potatoes as a hobby. If he is called back into service, he said, he would prefer to serve with a home guard unit here while the Montana National Guard is in active service. But failing in this, he added, he wants to serve under Brig. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis, the first colored general in the history of the army. Capt. Bivins and Gen. Davis were buddies in the Philippines campaigns, and once held the equal rank of squadron sergeant-major in the cavalry.

Recently, Capt. Bivins complied with the War Department's request to answer a questionnaire so the department could determine whether it wanted to call him back into service.

He also took the required physical examination and was found to be in far better condition than the average man years younger.

But where Bivins believes he might be of real service to the army is in instructing rookies in the art of marksmanship. At various times the captain led the army in marksmanship with both carbine and revolver He holds what he believes to be a record never equaled in the army—that of winning five gold medals for marksmanship in a single year in army competition. This was in 1894.

In 1896, so widespread was Bivins' fame as a crack shot, that Col. W. F. (Buffalo Bill(Cody tried to sign him to a contract with the Wild West show Cody headed. It was the colonel's plan to have Bivins compete with Annie Oakley, the show's feminine crack shot. But at that time, Bivins was in line for promotion to the rank of ordnance sergeant, and decided to remain in the army. He became a commissioned officer—one of the few colored men to achieve this rank—during the World war.

SANTA and the GIANT-KILLER

CHAPTER FOUR

The Witch of Hate's Three Giant Sons.

THE THREE GIANTS WERE QUITE DIFFERENT.

The three giants were very ill-tempered. They were brothers, but they didn't like each other. Each tried to pretend he was the most important giant in the world.

They were the three sons of the witch of hate. She hated the world because every time she flew near a mirror she saw how ugly she was. She used to break every mirror she could find.

Once she saw the Fairy Queen turn a bare field into a field of flowers. "Humph, I can do that," said the witch. She tried it. Nothing happened except that green snakes crawled out of holes all over the field. People ran away in horror and set nets over the chimneys to catch the witch.

She grew very old and when she was dying she called her ugly sons about her. Beside her couch stood a big iron cauldron in which a black syrup was cooking. She dipped three bottles into it, filled them, and handed one each to her sons.

"This," she said, "is a secret brew. Keep it. When you want to make people your slaves, just put a drop of my brew in their wells."

Rejoiced At Her Death.

She died. And the sons were so evil that they were glad their mother was dead. They quarreled until they were tired. Then they went to sleep.

Now the three giants were quite different.

There was one giant who thought he was the sun. He liked to walk about the mountains pretending everything that saw him blinked at his splendor.

He had a stomach like a barrel and no hair at all. His big hands hung almost to the ground. He picked up every shiny stone he saw and hung it around his neck.

Then there was the giant who wanted to build a wall as high as the sky. He spent all day in the mountains, pushing rocks loose and rolling them down into the valleys. He always meant to build the wall, but he was too lazy. He only made trouble for the farmers on the hillsides.

He had little sharp eyes like a pig and he wore a muffler around his neck on the warmest days because he was afraid of catching cold.

Then there was the giant with no blood in his veins and no heart in his breast. He thought he had a very fine voice. But when he tried to sing he sounded like an old crow, because, you see, one must have a warm heart to sing well. This giant hated all the birds, because they sang so beautifully.

He made himself a slingshot and went around trying to kill everything that had a song.

Angered by Snickers.

The giants lived that way, quarreling with each other, for twenty-one years. Then one day the giant who thought he was the sun walked through the kingdom of the good, gray Queen. He walked with his chin in the air, waiting to hear some one say how splendid he was. Instead, the people snickered and then laughed right out loud.

That made the giant so angry he rushed back to his brothers and said, "Now is the time to use that brew our wicked mother gave us. I have found a kingdom that laughed at me."

"Where is it?" said the giant who wanted to build a wall as high as the sky.

"I'll make them say I have the finest voice in the world," said the giant without a heart.
